Confessions Claimed in Cook State Graft Probe

LATE NEWS

Body of Unidentified Man Found in Sound

DARIEN, Conn.—(UP)—Fingerprints have been sent to the FBI in Washington in an attempt to identify the nude body of a middle-aged man, shot three times in his chest and back, found floating yesterday in Long Island Sound.

Stamford Medical Examiner Ralph W. Crane performed an autopsy on the man, apparently the victim of a gang killing, but he refused to release his findings, pending further investigation.

However, he did reveal that the man had been hit over the head and that the bullets had passed through his body.

Police are also checking the Missing Persons Bureau in New York because Chief Edward Mugavero said: "It looks like a New York job."

Hawaii May Set Up Government Stevedore Agency

HONOLULU, T. H.—(UP)—A bill setting up a Government-operated stevedoring agency for the duration of Hawaii's longshore walkout moved quickly toward becoming law yesterday. At the same time the striking CIO union announced mainland dockworkers have voted a boycott of any cargoes such an agency would handle.

An informal caucus in the Territorial House showed a 24-to-6 majority in support of the stevedoring bill and a clause that would bar strikers and other employees of struck companies from working for the agency unless other personnel is unobtainable.

Word leaked out of the closed executive session of both houses at mid-afternoon that the Senate apparently is prepared to string along with the House provisions.

Alert Shotgun Guard Foils Prison Break

BALTIMORE, Md.—(UP)—An alert guard armed with a shotgun yesterday captured three convicts as they attempted a daylight escape from Maryland State Penitentiary after seizing another guard as a hostage.

The guard, Joseph Snyder, discovered the prisoners as they were carrying a makeshift ladder toward the prison wall. When he levelled his shotgun at them from his post on top of the wall, the prisoners surrendered.

They were identified as Irvin Limper, 45, serving a 59-year sentence for assault and robbery; Reginald Butler, 29, serving 20 years for assault and attempted rape, and Howard Hentz, 27, sentenced to 20 years for assault and robbery.

Warden Edwin T. Swenson said the men slipped out of the "idle shop" on the second floor of the prison about noon while their guard was checking another part of the prison.

Leaps to Death in Torment Over Wife's Suicide

DETROIT—(AP)—A wealthy industrialist tormented by memories of his common law wife's suicide six years ago plunged 14 stories to death yesterday.

The victim was John O. Keim, 49, Vice President of John S. Oram Company, Cleveland machinery manufacturers. Police said he was a drug addict.

He leaped from his hotel room in downtown Detroit. Inspector George Kimball termed it suicide.

In Keim's room, officers found a shapely, red-haired woman asleep. Weeping hysterically, the 36-year-old woman identified herself as Mrs. Rita Miller and told police she knew nothing about the suicide.

She was released.

Lockwood's Family Asks Protection

Judge Returns To Bench; Denies Making Threats

By CELESTINE SIBLEY

Fulton County Grand Jurors will be asked today to indict Judge Robert Carpenter for assault with intent to murder Atty. John Lockwood inWednesday morning's pit-and-Peachtree Street shooting.

Sol. Gen. Paul Webb directed Asst. Sol. Gen. Charles Stewart to prepare a true bill for presentation to the Grand Jury yesterday after conferring with City and Fulton County detectives who investigated the case.

At the same time, Miss Dorothy Lockwood, daughter of the wounded attorney, asked for police protection for other members of the Lockwood family against any action of Judge Carpenter and announced that her father may suffer the loss of one eye as a result of the shooting.

"We have heard that Judge Carpenter has threatened to 'finish off' my father and any other member of the family who gets in his way," Miss Lockwood told The Constitution. "We have asked for police protection and were denied it because officers said this was a 'domestic case.'"

Miss Lockwood said her mother, Mrs. Nellie Lockwood, who filed suit against Lockwood early in June, had flown back from Houston, Texas, Wednesday to be at the bedside of the wounded attorney.

"My mother wants to make it clear that Mrs. Carpenter is a good friend of hers and in no way enters in the divorce suit which she has filed against my father. The divorce is just personal—and my mother is grateful to Mrs. Carpenter that she could help my father at this time."

The young woman said her mother and Mrs. Carpenter met in Lockwood's room at St. Joseph's Infirmary and "cried together over this thing." She said fragments of flying glass and possibly lead had struck Lockwood in the eyes.

"We have hope for one eye—but we are not too sure about the other," she added.

Judge Carpenter, who returned to the bench in Civil Court yesterday to continue with routine business which was already scheduled in his court, emphatically denied that he had threatened the Lockwoods.

In the office of Atty. Ellis Barrett, who with James Rankin represents him, the Judge said he had "made no threats against anyone."

Attys. Barrett and Rankin scoffed at charges that Carpenter

Old-Age Pensions Hiked to $50

Immediately upon adjournment of the Legislature at 4:50 p. m. yesterday, Gov. Talmadge announced that old age pensioners will again receive a maximum payment of $50 a month effective in September.

The new tax bills enacted by the 11-day special session of the Legislature will become effective Aug. 1—thereby increasing the price of beer, wine, gasoline and cigarettes. Talmadge will also issue an executive order increasing the warehouse fee on liquor—thereby causing an increase in the price of liquor. The new tax on corporate incomes will affect all 1949 earnings.

The maximum old age pension payments recently were cut from $50 to $30 a month in order to have sufficient funds to keep the rolls open for new applicants.

The Governor said the new money anticipated from the new taxes will make it possible for the State to raise the old age pensions and to increase the maximum payments for dependent children, which payments also recently were reduced. The State's plan to tighten eligibility regulations for welfare benefits will be relaxed, Talmadge said. He stated the original plans for tightening the regulations were caused by a shortage of funds. Now it is possible to pay all eligible applicants under existing requirements, he added.

An unexpected see-saw battle between the Senate and the House over an amendment to the cigarette tax bill kept the Solons working throughout the afternoon.

The two branches disagreed three times over how much discount to allow cigarette wholesalers for affixing the State tax stamp. The Senate tacked on the original amendment to cut the War Surplus 'Channeling' Said Illegal

Prosecution Promised On Completion Of Investigation

By ALBERT RILEY

Confessions have been obtained in an investigation of the illegal disposition of part of $225,000 worth of war surplus materials purchased by the State, Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook disclosed yesterday.

Cook said some of the surplus materials were illegally disposed of by "a State official or officials."

The confessions were obtained from "a person or persons" through which the materials were illegally "channeled," the Attorney General declared.

He did not name the State officials or departments involved, nor did he name the person or persons who have confessed.

"This investigation has been under way for some time by agents of the Federal Government in collaboration with me as Attorney General," he said. "The investigation has not been completed, but enough progress has been made to give you an idea of what I meant when I said that I was investigating charges of fraud and graft in the State Government."

Cook said he would prosecute the case when the investigation is completed.

The Attorney General's statement was made after his testimony before a closed meeting of the Senate Finance Committee last week was made a matter of public record when the Committee made its report to the Senate.

This was the first public disclosure that Cook had obtained a confession in his investigation.

Nowhere in Cook's testimony before the Senate Committee did he name persons or State departments under investigation.

Last week, however, Sen. Willis Smith, of Carrollton, a member of the Committee, disclosed that Cook's investigation was aimed at the State Department of Education and its surplus commodity division.

The transcript of Cook's testimony on the executive session of the Finance Committee showed that he told the Committee he had enough evidence at that time to submit to a Grand Jury, but that if he did submit it to a Grand Jury without completing his investigation "the little man would get hurt and somebody is going free."

He told the Committee he had a confession that no records were kept on disposition of part of the $225,000 worth of materials.

Cook also told the Senators he was investigating some matters that go back to former administrations.

The Senate adopted a resolution to continue a finance subcommittee to work with Cook in his investigations.

ST. LOUIS WOMAN?

Barkley Hints Queen; New Romance Looms

CULPEPPER, Va.—(AP)—The nation's No. 2 man, Vice President Alben W. Barkley, hinted romantically yesterday that he may soon crown "a queen of my own."

The V. P.—or "Veep," as he likes to be called—thus rekindled speculation that he may be contemplating a second marriage. His first wife died two years ago.

Crowning the Queen of Culpepper's bi-centennial celebration, the Vice President told the crowd with a twinkle:

"While I'm in the mood, I may crown one of my own some of these days—and keep her."

But the 71-year-old widower was keeping his plans, if any, a deep secret. In Chicago, where he recently addressed a jewelers' convention, the Vice President jovially brushed off newsmen who questioned him about a possible second venture in matrimony.

"Don't ask me about any woman in St. Louis," he chuckled. "I'm not here to buy a wedding ring, as one of you suggested."

Last Sunday, flying East in his private plane, Barkley stopped in St. Louis to be a luncheon guest of a pretty St. Louis widow, Mrs. Carleton S. Hadley, at what was supposed to be "sort of a secret" affair.

Afterwards, when the secret came out, Barkley commented:

"I had a swell time."

And Mrs. Hadley remarked, "Mr. Barkley is a very friendly man."

A smartly groomed brunette, considerably younger than the V. P., Mrs. Hadley met Barkley in Washington recently and later he gave a luncheon for her there. They met through a mutual friend, Clark Clifford of the President's White House staff.

Mrs. Hadley is the widow of a railroad attorney who died in 1945.

Barkley's wife, Dorothy, an invalid for many years, died in 1947. Since then, the Vice President's married daughter, Mrs. Max O'Rell Truitt, has served as his official hostess.

But the Vice President, despite his popularity, has keenly felt his loneliness.

"I get awfully blue sometimes," he has confided. "Somehow I tell a joke or story and get around it . . ."

Truce End Near In Bus Row

Negotiations over issues left unsettled by the agreement last May to end the 19-day strike of the transportation workers of the Georgia Power Company are still in stalemate and there is no present prospect of agreement. The 60-day negotiating period fixed by that agreement expires at midnight next Sunday night.

However, the agreement provided for a further 60-day period during which either side may cancel the present contract without notice. If neither side exercises this option prior to midnight of Sept. 30, the contract is valid until next April 30. This clause in the contract gives hope that in the event of no agreement by next Sunday midnight, the transportation workers Union will continue to operate the trolleys and buses on a day to day basis.

Judge Frank Hooper Recommended For New Georgia U. S. Judgeship

Judge Frank A. Hooper, of Fulton Superior Court, yesterday was recommended to President Truman for the new Federal judgeship in the Northern District of Georgia

Sen. Russell made the recommendation and the appointment from the White House is regarded as a foregone conclusion in Washington.

An omnibus Federal judgeship bill creating an additional office in the Northern Georgia jurisdiction and other districts over the country was finally agreed upon and sent to the White House this week. It is now awaiting President Truman's signature.

Judge Hooper, who has known Sen. Russell since college days and been a close friend since both of them were members of the Georgia Legislature, is the only Atlantan in many years to receive a major political appointment from the junior Senator. He will serve with Judge Robert Russell, the Senator's younger brother, who became Senior Judge two years ago following the retirement of Judge E. Marvin Underwood. At that time the second judgeship operated on a temporary basis.

Judge Hooper received the news that he had been recommended for the post, which was sought by several Georgia lawyers, at his home, 3303 Habersham Road, late yesterday. He expressed pleasure in his old friend's recommendation but laughingly insisted on not regarding himself a Federal Judge "until the President says so."

Judge Hooper has been in public life almost since he was admitted to the bar. He has been a member of the Fulton Superior Court bench since 1943.

A native of Sumter County, he is the son of the late well-known attorney, Frank A. Hooper, and Helena Callaway Hooper. He attended Georgia Tech for three years and it was there he first saw Richard B. Russell.

"I didn't think so much of him then," grinned the Judge. "He was a Georgia cheerleader. How could I?"

Later young Frank Hooper quit Tech because of ill health and read law in the office of his father. He served in the Georgia Legislature for four years and it was there that he renewed his acquaintance with Dick Russell.

"I found out he was a pretty nice fellow," the Judge said.

In 1932 he was appointed to the Court of Appeals to serve the unexpired term of Judge O. B. B. Bloodworth and then he served as Assistant City Attorney for three years. He enlisted in the Navy in World War I and was discharged with the rank of lieutenant (jg) after serving on transport duty.

He is married to the former Miss Carolyn Newton, of Gainesville, and they have three sons, Frank A. III, a student at Davidson College; Charles, 16, a student at North Fulton, and Ellis, 12.

Since he has been on the Superior Court bench Judge Hooper has taken a particular interest in the problems of young people and was prompted to take an active part in YMCA work to help young men avert the crimes which might bring them into his court. Although he insists that he is at heart an advocate of the "S. S. S." —Society for the Supression of Societies—Judge Hooper admits to enthusiastic membership in the YMCA where he serves on the Board of Directors, the Optimist

Truman Selects Clark as Justice, McGrath as U. S. Attorney General

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman yesterday chose Atty. Gen. Tom Clark to become a Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court and Sen. J. Howard McGrath, of Rhode Island, to succeed Clark.

Both are Democrats. Clark is 49, McGrath 45.

Besides his Senatorial post, McGrath is Chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Accepting the nomination, Clark said: "It is with humility that I approach it. I hope I am worthy of the honor the President has paid me."

McGrath was also expected to accept, though that was not certain. He said he was "highly gratified" that Mr. Truman offered him the post as Chief of the Justice Department, but told newsmen he wanted to talk it over with his family over the weekend.

Thus Mr. Truman rewarded two more of the faithful who stood by him during the election campaign last year when many others were giving it up as a hopeless cause.

The President's surprise announcement came virtually out of the blue at his weekly news conference. He had finished reading a long statement on atomic energy policy and the conference was beginning to slow down to the point where newsmen sing out "thank you, Mr. President" and dash for the telephones.

Suddenly a reporter asked him when he might make a decision on a new Supreme Court Justice to succeed the late Justice Frank Murphy, who died of a heart seizure on July 19.

Calmly, with a mild twinkle, Mr. Truman said he had already made up his mind.

He said Clark and McGrath had

Defense Group Advances Truman-Backed Bill

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A bill tightening the military unification law and setting up a new money-saving budget system for the armed services cleared a Senate-House conference committee yesterday and was ready for final Congressional action.

It was just about what President Truman and Secretary of Defense Johnson had asked for. The budget provisions were in general accord with the recommendations of the Hoover Commission, which said improved accounting procedures could save hundreds of millions of dollars.

A couple of weeks ago, prospects for final approval of the measure appeared dim. The House Armed Services Committee voted to postpone action on it until it had carried out an investigation of bomber purchases by the Air Force. President Truman, however, served notice of his intention to put through many of the changes by executive order, and the House passed a bill which since has been adjusted to meet differences with the Senate.

The compromise measure gives the Defense Secretary broader and more direct authority over the Army, Navy and Air Force. The three services would be reduced to the status of "military departments" under the Defense Department, which would have full cabinet status second only to the Department of State.

The bill contains a strict prohibition against merger of the services or major shifts in funds, functions or personnel. This is expected to ease the anxiety of the Marines, who feared absorption by the Army, and of the Naval air branch, which looked with a fearful eye toward the expanding Air Force.

A comptroller of defense expenditures would be established in the office of the Secretary of Defense, to install and operate the new budget and accounting systems, expected to be based on standard business practices.

The joint chiefs of staff—the military heads of the Army, Navy and Air Force—would be augmented by a permanent chairman. The new official would outrank all other military officers, but would have no vote on the council nor any command authority. The chiefs of staff as a whole would serve as military advisers to the President.

The Undersecretary of Defense (at present Stephen Early) would become "Deputy Secretary" at $14,500 a year. The Secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force would retain their titles, but their pay would be cut $1,000 to $14,000 a year.

WOMEN FAINT, MEN HOLD NOSES ON TOUR

City Planners Launch Plan To Eliminate Slum Areas

The Metropolitan Planning Commission yesterday began work on a plan for eliminating Atlanta's slums. City Councilman John A. White, who addressed the Commission, described the slums as "so putrid" that on a recent tour of them several civic women fainted and men in the group got by only by holding their noses.

The Commission accepted a directive from City Council to draw up a Redevelopment Plan whereby the Atlanta Metropolitan Area might obtain funds under the Federal Housing Act of 1949 for the eradication of slum areas.

The Commission will, as its first act in line with the directive, call for consultation the planning engineers of Atlanta and Fulton County, the members of the Atlanta Housing Authority, the Housing Committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce and the Planning Commissions of Atlanta and Fulton County. Additionally, the Governments of Decatur, Hapeville, College Park, East Point and DeKalb County will be consulted.

The Federal Housing Act provides for loans to enable the assembly, clearance, preparation, sale and lease of land for redevelopment and for capital grants of approximately two-thirds of the aggregate net project costs involved, provided there is available a local grant-in-aid for the balance.

The Commission voted to do everything possible to enable Metropolitan Atlanta to be among the first localities to benefit under the recently enacted Housing Act.

Councilman White said that Atlanta's slum areas are costing the taxpayers more than $2,500,000 a year or 45 percent of all monies collected.

He said that 50 percent of our police protection money, 45 percent of our Fire Department money, 60 percent of our funds for fighting tuberculosis and 50 percent of the money for combatting juvenile delinquency are spent in slum areas.

He said Atlanta's slums are the largest and worst in the South, adding that in the next five years there will be a need for 12,000 new Negro housing units.

U. S., Britain, Canada To Hold Discussions on Long-Range Atom Plan

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Truman said yesterday the United States will hold exploratory talks with Britain and Canada on "some of the basic questions" for a long-range policy on atomic energy.

He said the Administration and Congress will have to decide together what course is wisest.

British Dollar Deficit;

WORLD TODAY

A spokesman for the British Foreign Office said in London the President's statement was a fair representation of the United Kingdom's position on atomic energy.

Europe's Marshall Plan countries called a special meeting in Paris for today to discuss Dutch opposition to a British move for a bigger share in American dollar aid. A Netherlands spokesman said the British action endangered recovery in other European countries.

Britain has advised the Organization of European Economic Cooperation that revised calculations showed she would have a dollar deficit of $1,518,000,000 in 1949-50. This was $404,000,000 higher than Britain's estimate three months ago.

FAMILY REUNION

Recalls Name After Nine Years

Special to The Constitution

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y.—Two men walked into the office of Dr. Nathaniel E. Selby here yesterday and stared almost unbelievingly at a blonde woman of 26.

"Sister!" one of them cried, and Stanley Kahalanski, 35, and his brother, Frederick, 40, of Braddock, Pa., rushed to embrace Mrs. Emily Norton. She tearfully returned their greeting.

It was not only a reunion with her kin after nine years for Mrs. Norton, it was a reunion with her past up to the age of 17. Her memory, she related, suddenly "blacked out" nine years ago in Braddock and the next thing she remembered she was working as a domestic—with no recollection of the past—in Latrobe, Pa.

Mrs. Norton began recovering from amnesia recently after Dr. Selby placed her under hypnosis. She remembered enough to identify herself, and her family at Braddock was notified.

Her brothers not only met their long-missing sister but also three other relatives they never suspected they had. Tnese were Mrs. Norton's husband, John, and the couple's children, Robert, 3, and Melanie, 1, all of New Rochelle.

Mrs. Norton met her husband, a World War II mess sergeant, after coming to New Rochelle to work as a waitress. Norton now is a waiter in a Bronxville restaurant.

"It's wonderful!" said Mrs. Norton. "I'm so happy I hardly know what to say."

THE DAY IN CONGRESS

Europe Lies Open To Attack--Acheson

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A poorly armed Western Europe lies open to possible attack by the Soviets, Secretary of State Acheson told Congress yesterday.

He went before the House Foreign Affairs Committee to urge swift approval of the Administration's $1,450,000,000 arms aid plan to bolster friendly nations against the threat of aggression.

He said the program is urgent for America's own security, and is the minimum amount "which makes sense." This Nation's own well-being is bound firmly to that of the Western European countries, he declared, and he added that those countries now are simply incapable of defending themselves from any major aggressive thrust.

"The Soviet Union today maintains the largest peacetime force in the history of the World . . ." he said. "The danger is real . . . The free nations have no other recourse than to strengthen their own defenses against the threat of far larger forces maintained by the Soviet Union."

Other Capitol developments:

GRASSHOPPER WAR—$1,500,000 isn't enough to fight the current grasshopper infestation in the West, the Senate decided yesterday. It jumped the sum to $3,500,000 and sent the bill back to the House.

FOREIGN AID—Republican Floor Leader Wherry, Nebraska, said the Senate may try to reverse its action of yesterday which resulted in sending the $5,723,000,000 foreign aid bill back to the Appropriations Committee. Sen. Knowland, Republican, California, said he would move to reconsider the vote.

APPROPRIATIONS—With six big appropriation bills still tied up in Congress, the House passed and sent to the Senate a resolution providing stop-gap financing for the armed services, Atomic Energy Commission, Interior Department and a score of other agencies. It's the second such emergency resolution Congress has had to pass this year.

SCHOOL AID—Chairman John Lesinski, Democrat, Michigan, of the House Labor Committee, told the press the controversial $300,000,000-a-year Federal aid to education bill is dead for this session of Congress.

Gambling Fortress Raided

MAPLE SHADE, N. J.—(UP)—State troopers seized 187 men and $40,000 yesterday in a surprise raid on a concrete gambling stronghold protected by a look-out tower and a "raid-proof" inner door.

The hangout, which police said was run by a "big-time gambling syndicate," was equipped with dice and card tables, slot machines, a racing board and a ticker.

The raiders confiscated three revolvers and a carbine rifle hidden behind a trap door. Most of the money was taken from the shirt-sleeved men who jammed the gambling room to capacity. Police got $12,000 from one man alone.

Unable to escape the police net because of the scarcity of exits, the "house men" and patrons were trapped and forced to surrender. They were carted off by the bus-load to the Chester Township Municipal Building for hearings before a municipal judge.

Fourteen of the suspects were held in $5,000 bail each as "principals." Five others were held as material witnesses, and 168 were listed as "frequenters" of the gambling establishment and deposited $25 cash bail for further hearings.

NO RAISES FOR FLA. EMPLOYEES

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—(INS)—Employees of Florida State agencies will get no salary increases soon.

Gov. Fuller Warren's cabinet yesterday voted five to one against wage hikes for State employees. Atty. Gen. Richard Ervin, who cast the dissenting vote, said:

"We've already cut 25 percent. Isn't that enough?"

Shot by Mob, S. C. Negro Tells Police

COLUMBIA, S. C.—(AP)—A young Negro, father of six children, claimed yesterday a masked mob shot and beat him and his brother last Monday night. His family, he said, was terrorized.

The half dozen night riders told him, he added, that they came to his house to give him and his brother their "civil rights."

Elliot Bates, 30, talked to a Columbia Record reporter from his bed in a Columbia Hospital. He ha. gunshot wounds in the hand and thigh and an abrasion on the head.

The brother, Harry Bates, was not hospitalized and was believed to have been treated at home for his injuries.

Bates' little home is 14 miles south of here in the Sandy Run section of Calhoun County.

As he told his story, Lieut. J. D. Watson, of the state constabulary, said an investigation was underway in co-operation with Sheriff E. D. Whetstone. The sheriff said he knew no details. Watson declined to comment on his progress.

Medina Trial Weary

NEW YORK—(AP)—Federal Judge Harold R. Medina, who has been presiding at the Communist conspiracy trial for more than six months, wearily told wrangling attorneys yesterday that he is "physically and mentally incapable of going through much more."

"I must take a recess now and lie down for a minute," he said. He walked off the bench and was gone for 10 minutes.

Shortly after the Judge returned from his rest, the defense introduced its 10th witness, Mrs. Yolanda Hall, of (4838 North Sacramento) Chicago. She said she had been a Communist since 1939.

Judge Medina's departure from the courtroom came suddenly in the midst of wrangling between defense attorneys and United States Attorney John F. X. McGohey.

Schoolteachers in New England once were generally paid two ham in exchange for a year's tuition in arithmetic.

94 DEGREES IN ATLANTA

So You Think It's Hot Here!

CHICAGO—(UP)—The major portion of the nation sweltered through the sixth day of a humid heat wave yesterday and temperatures in the high 90's hit the Eastern seaboard.

At Boston the mercury soared to 98.6 degrees. In New York City the maximum was 95.

Mayor William O'Dwyer sent all city employees except policemen, firemen and transportation men home in the afternoon.

At Everett, Mass., it was so hot that an unidentified man lost the seat of his pants. He boarded a bus that had been standing in the sun, and when he rose from his seat, his trousers didn't.

At Atlantic City the beach temperature was 93 degrees but Stephen Granick, 32, was admitted to Atlantic City General Hospital with what amounted to a near case of frostbite.

Granick distributes ice cream sticks to boardwalk and beach vendors. The door of the freezing compartment of his truck blew shut from the outside.

He was found unconscious two hours later by a vendor who wanted to replenish his supply of ice cream.

At Philadelphia, for a while, an electric fan proved an added comfort to the nice bath Edna Shayborn, 26, enjoyed as relief from the heat. Then it happened.

Miss Shayborn reached out of the tub to move the fan. She couldn't let go. She screamed and leaped from the tub, the fan still in her hand.

Her landlord and his wife ran to help. They pulled the cord from a wall plug.

"It followed me around like a little dog," Miss Shayborn added later.

Thermometers climbed to 95 at Macon, Ga., and 100 at Columbia, S. C.

Richmond, Va., had a 96 and Chicago 94. It was 90 at Detroit.

SAVANNAH—(AP)—"Phew, it's hot!" said the man on the street as the mercury set an all-time record for July 28 in Savannah.

The temperature had reached 102 degrees at 2:30 yesterday afternoon.

Game Official Abducted by Hitch-Hiker

Constitution State News Service

ALBANY—An armed hitch-hiker yesterday abducted a District Chief of the State Game and Fish Commission on the outskirts of Albany and set him afoot in Florida after taking his car.

Atlanta officials of the Commission late last night said they had been informed J. H. Harrell had called his wife from a small town in Florida after having been missing since yesterday morning.

He was reported en route to Albany by bus after telling his wife he had been forced to drive the hitch-hiker to Florida after he had picked him up on the outskirts of Albany. He lives in this city.

Three Indicted In U. S. Thefts

A Federal Grand Jury indicted three persons on charges of theft from interstate shipments here yesterday.

Charles Almond, of Fredell Circle, East Point, and Charles Brown Moore, of 831 Warner St., S. W., allegedly took 20 cases of whiskey from the Macon-Dixon Freight Lines, 776 Stewart Ave., S. W., in December, 1948.

The jury returned a true bill against John Carpenter, itinerant trucker whose last address was given as Truckers' Rest, Winter Haven, Fla., charged with theft of 486 bags of potatoes here March 26.

Marion D. Partee, of 160 Ashby St., N. W., U. S. railway postal clerk, and Phil Parks, of Fulton County, were indicted for theft of mail matter, in two separate cases.

Other indictments were: Roy Roper, Clyde T. McArthur, Lloyd Roper, and Howard B. Backwell, all charged with conspiracy to violate internal revenue liquor laws; Mrs. Anna Lewis Nelson, of 686 Washington St., S. W., forgery; Theron H. Knight, James S. Ex-Bootblack Is Quizzed on '5 Percenting'

WASHINGTON— (UP) —John Maragon, former Kansas City bootblack who once held a White House pass, was questioned yesterday by a Senate Subcommittee investigating five percenters but later denied having any part in the "influence industry."

The dapper Greek-American, who first denied he had been questioned, finally made a statement in which he said he requested the hearing after Columnist Drew Pearson accused him of being a "50 percenter" in a column published July 20.

He said he went to Sen. Karl E. Mundt, Republican, of South Dakota, member of the investigating subcommittee, and demanded a chance to appear.

"Yesterday the Committee received my testimony in executive session," he said.

A reporter interrupted.

"Are you a five percenter or a 50 percenter?" he asked.

"I have never been a five percenter, certainly never a 50 percenter or any other kind of a percenter," Maragon shot back.

Truman To Get Ex-Sheriff's Pardon Plea

ROME—(AP)—President Truman will probably be asked this weekend to pardon ex-Chattooga County Sheriff A. H. Glenn, who is now serving a prison sentence in Tallahassee Federal Prison.

Jack Glenn, son of the 75-year-old prisoner, told news sources that a petition has been in circulation for two days and has been signed by more than 1,000 Chattooga County citizens. They ask for pardon "due to his advanced age and poor health," young Glenn said.

The former Sheriff is serving an 18-month sentence for "conspiracy to defraud the government." He was convicted in May, 1948 along with State Rep. Ed Knight and Jack Hartline. The three are alleged to have conspired with "moonshiners" in a large liquor syndicate.

Glenn began his sentence in June of this year.

Jack Glenn said the petition will probably be completed within the next two days and submitted to the President over the week-end.

Robbed, Bound, Says Couple

Fulton police are looking for several men who, a North Fulton farmer and his wife reported, robbed them of between $800 and $1,000 early yesterday.

The complainants were Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Moulder, of Sargent Road, north of Alpharetta.

According to Pfc. J. C. Adkisson and A. P. Douglas, the Moulders reported the men roused them from bed, poured kerosene about the house and threatened to burn them alive.

They quoted Mrs. Moulder as saying when she opened the door that one of the men announced "This is a stickup," and thrust her aside. The men then bound the couple and ransacked the house.

After threatening to set the house afire and leave them helpless in it, the men relented, but warned them they would return and "finish the job" if police were notified. The Moulders said all the men were masked.

Cannery Busy

SPARTA—The Hancock County Cannery, located in the Vocational Agriculture Building of the Sparta High School, is one of the busiest places in this city. Thousands of cans of tomatoes, corn, squash and soup mixture have already been processed. Many of the "canners" are men, who have been sent to town with the produce while their wives remain at home to do other work.

$100,000 Suit Charges Cemetery Lot Resale

A $100,000 suit charging that an Atlanta cemetery lot had been sold a second time and the body of the original owners' infant son lost in transfer to a cheaper lot will be aired Sept. 2 in Fulton Superior Court.

Judge George P. Whitman, Sr., yesterday ordered the joint defendants in the suit filed by Mrs. E. P. Reynolds, 69, widow of the late E. P. Reynolds, of Miami, Fla., to show cause why damages should not be awarded the plaintiff.

The Judge refused to grant an order enjoining and restraining the defendants from trespassing upon the lot or in any way changing its status.

The suit lists the defendants as Crest Lawn, Inc.; Crest Lawn Cemetery, Inc.; Atlanta Cemetery Association; Northview Cemetery; Georgia Cemetery and Mausoleum Company; Crest Lawn Memorial Park, Inc.; E. C. Callaway, and C. E. Mason.

Mrs. Reynolds is represented by Attorneys Thomas L. Slappey and A. Guy Smith, of Atlanta.

The suit charges that the defendants, in violation of conditions of a warranty deed held by the petitioner for lot nine in block two of what was formerly Northview Cemetery, had resold the lot to W. B. Payne, and had removed the body of Mrs. Reynolds' infant child to a less desirable, cheaper lot, where she has been unable to locate it.

The defendants are alleged in the suit to have assured the petitioner and her husband that the infant's grave would always receive the best of care and protection.

Instead the suit alleges, a deed for record of said lot was issued on April 15, 1931, to a Mr. W. B. Payne, by defendant Georgia Cemetery and Mausoleum Company, and another deed was executed for said lot on April 8, 1933, to the said W. B. Payne by Crest Lawn, Inc.

Mrs. Reynolds then states she was informed by her son, G. B. Reynolds, that he had visited the cemetery and asked the sexton to see the lot described in the warranty deed made to his father. Upon being shown the lot, he informed his mother he had asked the sexton "where is the baby's grave that was on this lot," and was told by the sexton it had been moved to a cheaper lot.

The petition alleges the sexton told her son the officials of the cemetery had ordered the baby's body removed stating the officials said "this was too pretty a lot to waste on a baby's grave."

The suit also alleged the sexton refused to point out the spot where the baby's grave had been moved because "there is no use in going down the hill to try to point out the grave where we moved your baby brother . . . as nobody knows where it was moved."

No Provision in Georgia Law for Removing Judge

Georgia lawmakers apparently have neglected to provide any specific remedy for the removal of Fulton Civil Court judges.

Attorneys at the Courthouse discovered that yesterday when they sought to determine what steps, if any, could be taken to remove Judge Robert Carpenter.

The 1913 act of the Legislature, creating the court — originally called Municipal Court of Fulton County—provided that the judges of that court be recommended by Fulton Superior Court Judges and appointed by the Governor. They could also be suspended and removed from the bench for misconduct, if they were convicted by all Superior Court Judges, sitting en banc at a hearing.

However, the Legislature in 1935 approved election of Civil Court Judges by the people and struck the provision applying to removal from the act and did not substitute another one. Attorneys said the only law under which a Civil Court Judge could be removed is the general impeachment law applying to all public officials. Under that law, the House would have to prefer charges and the Senate, sitting in a body, would try the judge. Chief Justice of the Supreme Court would preside and conviction would have to be by two-thirds vote of the Senate.

been in his office this morning and he had offered them the appointments.

The President said they were both very surprised—so surprised that they did not immediately accept. But he said his best guess was that they would accept.

A reporter, referring to earlier speculation that Mr. Truman might name a Catholic to succeed Justice Murphy, who was a Catholic, asked the President if he had any feeling that the big minority groups in this country should be represented on the Nation's highest tribunal.

A man's faith, replied the President, has nothing to do with his qualifications for the Supreme Court.

Clark, a Texan, is a Presbyterian. McGrath is a Catholic.

Justice Murphy has been the lone Catholic on the high bench.

In general, the reaction on Capitol Hill late yesterday afternoon was laudatory.

Clark was the first new cabinet appointee named by Mr. Truman after he entered the White House in 1945. The Texan succeeded Francis Biddle as Attorney General in June of that year.

At his news conference, Mr. Truman told reporters they could do their own speculating on whether William M. Boyle, Jr., of Kansas City, will succeed Senator McGrath as Chairman of the Democratic National Committee. Boyle is now Executive Vice Chairman.

McGrath said he will decide whether to resign as Chairman of the Party after he has decided whether to accept the Attorney Generalship.

The Justice Department post carries a salary of $15,000 a year. As a Senator, McGrath makes a little more—$12,500 salary plus $2,500 in tax-free expenses, along with other "extras" for staff help, etc.

In going from Attorney General to the Supreme Court, Clark will get a $10,000-a-year salary boost. High court justices receive $25,000 annually.

had threatened to "finish" Lockwood.

"We think a jury will finish Lockwood in Fulton County," they declared. "Bob Carpenter has nothing to fear. He acted as any other red-blooded Georgian would have done under similar circumstances."

To questions about the circumstances leading up to the shooting, Carpenter's attorneys said they had "no wish to try the case in the newspapers."

"We know what happened," said Barrett, "but we will wait and tell our story to the jury." Asked to comment on the Grand Jury investigation, Barrett said, "If the Grand Jury knew all the facts in this case they would certainly return a no-bill. But we realize a Grand Jury investigation is ex-parte." (One-sided.)

Judge Carpenter spent the morning in his office, hearing a motion for a new trial. He appeared fresh and rested and said he would return to his office daily to "handle routine business." Judge Quincy Arnold, senior judge in Civil Court, previously announced that he would assign no new cases to Judge Carpenter's calendar as long as a felony charge is pending against him.

Judge Carpenter is free under $500 bond on a charge of shooting at another. The charge was changed from assault with intent to murder to shooting a pistol at another by County police after they learned that Lockwood was not seriously injured, Fulton officers reported.

The 53-year-old attorney was wounded about the face from flying glass and possibly lead early Wednesday morning when Judge Carpenter fired at him through the window of his car. Both men abandoned their cars on Peachtree Street near Spring, and Carpenter allegedly pursued Lockwood, firing after him until the attorney plunged into a 30-foot pit left open during the construction of a building on the site.

Carpenter surrendered to police and admitted the shooting. Mrs. Carpenter appeared at the hospital and was in the ambulance with Lockwood. Her daughter arrived at the jail and remained at Judge Carpenter's side until his release.

Austria-Hungary declared war on Serbia and other nations quickly joined sides to set off World War I.

9 Mentioned As Candidates For Judgeship

Gov. Talmadge is expected to choose a successor to Fulton Superior Court Judge Frank Hooper, just recommended for a Federal judgeship, from nine men, according to Courthouse opinion.

Those prominently mentioned are Criminal Court Judge Jesse M. Wood, Chief Civil Court Judge Quincy O. Arnold, Civil Court Judge Wilson Parker, and Attys. Durwood Pye, Charles G. Bruce, William G. Grant, Ellis Barrett, James Rankin and William F. Buchanan.

Should Talmadge name Judges Wood or Parker he would be able to make two appointments instead of one. He would have to name successors to them in their present posts.

Should he name Arnold, he would have three appointments. One of the other Civil Court Judges would be appointed Chief Judge and another Civil Court Judge would have to appointed.

Club and the Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist Church.

He is a Deacon in the church and one of the two Georgia members on the Executive Committee of the Southern Baptist Convention.

"He would love to be a farmer," explained Mrs. Hooper, "but he doesn't have time for it."

Law is Judge Hooper's real hobby and his wife says he puts in many of his hours at home in his study, where he has a law library and a typewriter. Judge Hooper boasts that he built the shelves for the library himself and, as a former Tech man, is extremely handy at odd jobs around the house. He and his sons recently rescreened their big back porch.

Rep. Luther Alverson, of Fulton County, disclosed yesterday that 112 members of the Georgia General Assembly had signed a petition urging Sen. Russell to appoint Judge Hooper to the new Federal circuit bench.

Alverson's name headed the list of petitioners, which included his Fulton County colleagues, Reps. Muggsy Smith and Jesse Walton and Sen. Roy LeCraw, of Atlanta, and Sen. Mell Turner, of Decatur.

DeKalb County Representatives were not available to sign the petition, Alverson said.

maximum discount to wholesalers from 10 percent to five percent. The House refused to accept the amendment, and a conference committee was appointed.

The committee agreed on cutting this to 7½ percent, but the Senate refused. A second conference committee dropped this discount to six percent and the Senate still refused. The third conference committee agreed on the Senate's original five percent discount. This was accepted by both Houses.

The Senate dropped its plan to tax snuff and chewing tobocco.

The Senate's plan to double the tax on cigars was modified. The legislation will increase the cigar tax 10 percent.

This was the final bill to be readied for the Governor's signature. The House earlier yesterday agreed to a Senate amendment on the corporate income tax. The two branches earlier agreed on taxing beer, wine, and gasoline.

The new gasoline tax will be seven cents a gallon, instead of six cents. Cigarettes will be taxed five cents a package, instead of three cents. Beer will be taxed four cents a bottle instead of two cents. The wine tax will be doubled, and the cigar tax will be upped 10 percent. The liquor tax will continue at $1 a gallon, but the warehouse fee will be $4 a gallon instead of $3—thereby making the total license charge $5 a gallon instead of $4.

The Senate and House amended the appropriations bill so as to permit the Governor to provide a total of $20,500,000 for schools, old age pensions, rural highways, Battey Hospital, and Milledgeville Hospital.

All of the emergency taxes, except corporate income, expire June 30, 1951. The corporate income tax is applicable to the calendar years 1949 and '50. This bill makes the rate 7 percent instead of 5½ percent.

Winning virtually a complete victory in the 11-day session, Gov. Talmadge appeared before both houses shortly before adjournment and expressed his appreciation. He praised the solons for their diligence and the "non-partisan way" in which they went about the task of raising more revenue.

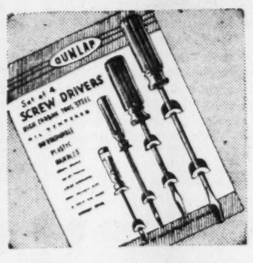

"Levying taxes is never popular," he told the Senate and the House, "but you have met the issue as best you could. I know that the thousands and thousands of aged and crippled, the school children and patients of Battey and Milledgeville Hospitals are proud of the way you have assumed your responsibility and met the challenge."

Cigarette Tax Refund Cut Saves Taxpayers $700,000

By standing pat on its proposal to reduce from 10 to five percent the cigarette tax refund to wholesalers and distributors, the Senate yesterday saved Georgia taxpayers nearly $700,000 annually.

When the House refused to agree to this Senate amendment on the cigarette tax bill, Sens. H. R. Garrett, of Quitman, Walter Harrison, of Millen, and Charlie Tarver, of Cordele, led a fight eventually resulting in the House yielding.

Garrett said that by forcing the House to accept the amendment, the Senate had saved the State exactly $693,500 a year in refunds. He pointed out that the 10 percent refund to wholesalers for affixing stamps to cigarettes was originally granted when the State tax was only one and one-half cents a package. A 10 percent refund on a five-cent tax is too much, he argued.

When the House stood firm on its refusal to accept Sen. Harrison's amendment to add a tax on snuff, chewing tobacco and smoking tobacco, the Millen Senator finally yielded, but said: "We'll let the old Red Rooster (a brand of snuff) strut until next January, but we're going to put all Bull Durham and Brown Mule users on notice, that after next January they're going to have to pay a tax, just like the cigar and cigarette smokers."

At least an effort at tax revision by the General Assembly next January was assured when the Senate approved a House resolution calling for a report from the Tax Revision Committee by Dec. 5.

Sen. W. B. Cochran, Jr., of Thomasville, who broke sharply with Gov. Talmadge to bitterly fight the Governor's entire "emergency" program, had this parting shot to his colleagues:

"I love everyone of you, even including Jimmy Dykes. But go home and listen to your constituents, and let's come back in January and pass a few good bills for the benefit of the people of Georgia."

Lost in the shuffle on the session's final day was a last-minute resolution, offered by Sen. Albert Swint, of Orchard Hill, that might have embarrassed the lawmakers.

"On account of the emergency confronting the State," Swint said, "I move that no Senator call on the State Treasury for any per diem for this extra session until there ceases to be a financial crisis in the State."

There was considerable horseplay in the Senate as the solons awaited conference committee reports on the cigarette tax bill. Sen. Frank Lunsford, of Leary, and Sen. Tom Rich, of Bainbridge, serenaded the Upper House with a rendition of "Oh, Happy Day." And Lunsford recited a poem which sounded suspiciously like "The Face on the Barroom Floor."

Lunsford also introduced a resolution to have the Senate remain in session until the Atlanta Crackers win a baseball game. And he made a speech in which he said "the only two things that are certain in the State of Georgia are taxes and death—only the taxes get worse."

When Sen. John Land, of Columbus, and Sen. Roy LeCraw, of Atlanta, questioned the legality of the House bill appropriating emergency funds, the Senate had to call on Atty. Eugene Cook and State Auditor B. E. Thrasher, Jr., to clarify it, and Sen. Lunsford suggested the Senate also call on the Supreme Court to decide.

LeCraw was not satisfied with assurances from Cook and Thrasher, and predicted a Court test on the bill. Along with Sens. Knox Gholston of Comer, and Walter R. Williams, Jr., of Milledgeville, he voted only "present" when the roll was called on the measure.

Sen. Henry Davis, of Jefferson, an administration critic, wound up his speech-making for the session with sarcastic digs about "useless people on the State payroll."

"You've seen a big, double-jointed man hanging around here," Davis said. "Well, he came up here to get a State job they gave him, but he still doesn't know what his job is. His job was in the Parks Department, but he hasn't located the place he was supposed to go. So he saw us in session and said, 'Well, here's the zoo, I must be in the right place'."

Another State employee, Davis charged, has drawn $1,315 from two State Departments for doing nothing.

"I won't ask the Governor to fire all these useless employees now," the Jeffersonian continued, "but next Summer we'll be back with another series and it will be entitled 'We, the People Speak'."

A sort of a legislative "FEPC" was urged in a House resolution yesterday in regard to state employment of solons. Noting the number of legislators receiving pay as state employees, the resolution would require the state to give jobs to every Senator and Representative if it gave a job to any of them. The salaries would be identical. If desk space and job opportunities were not available, the state could merely send salary checks to the solons. The resolution was introduced by Reps. B. C. Robertson, of Meriwether; Sam Witworth, of Madison; Richard Best, of Clay, and Bobby Lee Cook, of Chattooga. Speaker Fred Hand referred the resolution to the Committee on Drainage—the committee for killing bills.

The House apparently doesn't want the farmers to think the State doesn't trust them. The Legislature previously has turned back attempts to require that the tax-free gas provided farmers for tractors be colored so agents could determine if it is being used illegally in automobiles on the highways. Yesterday, Rep. Jack Ray of Warren County and others sought unsuccessfully to pass a resolution merely permitting the State Revenue Department to color the farm gasoline. Rep. W. K. Smith of Bryan County fought the resolution, stating it would imply that the House thinks Georgia farmers are thieves.

Records Stolen, Alabama Klan Chief Repeats

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—(AP)—Ku Klux Klan Chief William Hugh Morris told reporters yesterday he has been unable to find missing Klan records sought by a Grand Jury.

He made the statement while waiting to be called before the jury, which reconvened after a week's recess. The Jury is investigating mob violence by hooded night riders in this district.

Morris, who spent 16 days in jail for refusing to bring the secret records before a previous Grand Jury, said he would now turn them over to the Jury if he can find them. He says they were stolen from his home July 20.

He added that it had never been his intention to defy the Court and he thought he was within his legal rights.

29,924 Georgia Veterans Buy Homes With GI Loans

A total of 29,924 Georgia veterans have bought homes with the help of loan guaranties provided in the GI bill, Robert Taylor, Veterans' Administration Loan Guaranty Officer for the State, announced yesterday.

More than 1,500,000 World War II veterans have used such home loans across the nation, according to VA statistics.

In Georgia, Taylor reported, $148,769,959 has been advanced for GI home financing.

The VA said 27,412 new applications were received from lenders over the nation during the month of June, an increase of more than 40 percent over a low point reached in the first three months of 1949.

The sharp upturn in new applications followed a steady decline for a year and one-half from the 50,000 rate per month average reached in the fall of 1947. The peak of GI home loan applications was reached in September, 1946, when 58,000 applications were received.

VA spokesmen attribute reversal of the long downward trend in GI loans to several factors. One is the Government secondary market for such loans, authorized last year, which has made additional funds available for GI lending. Another is the growing investment problem facing lending agencies, where deposits have been mounting.

Recent declines in bond yields and interest rates have encouraged many lenders to view four percent GI loans with more favor, the VA said.

The interest rate on GI home loans cannot exceed four percent, and loans may be made repayable over periods up to 25 years. VA guarantees the lender against loss for up to 50 percent of the amount loaned to the veteran, with a maximum guarantee of $4,000.

VA spokesmen emphasized, however, that "four percent mortgage money still is tight in some parts of the country, and veterans may still find it difficult to obtain GI loans in these areas."

The agency reported the million-and-one-half veteran home buyers have established a good record in meeting mortgage obligations.

Latest figures from Washington, D. C., show default claims had to be paid in only three out of every 1,000 home loans guaranteed, with only 18 out of every 1,000 veterans lagging behind in monthly payments. The VA said past experience indicates a majority of these current defaults will be "cured," with ex-servicemen re-establishing obligations.

Total home loans approved in the U. S. amount to $8,457,000,000, with VA guarantees aggregating $4,059,000,000. To date, more than 70,000 home loans totaling $340,000,000 in original amounts have been paid in full.

Decatur Petition Seeks Vote on Sewage Merge

A petition seeking a voters' referendum on the question of merging the Decatur and DeKalb sewage systems is being circulated in Decatur.

J. L. Fossett, a retired businessman who is heading the movement for the referendum, said that more than 500 names already have been secured. Twenty percent of the registered voters of Decatur, or about 1,100, will be necessary, he stated.

The group seeks to give the citizens the right to say whether or not the sewage systems should be merged. Recently the Decatur City Commission voted three to two to merge the system on a contractural basis with the DeKalb County government.

Under the proposal the County will build a new $500,000 sewage disposal plant for use by both the County and City of Decatur. Decatur, over a period of 26 years, would pay $2,335,000 for sewage services plus its pro rata interest in the combined sewage system.

Each contestant was sponsored by a Washington merchant or business man who presented them with prizes. Bouquets of long-stemmed red roses were given the queens of beauty.

Legislature Airs Cracker Troubles

Even the Georgia General Assembly has taken cognizance of the present plight of the Crackers, but judging from past performances of that astute body, it is doubtful if it can help much.

The Senators heard a proposal yesterday that they remain in session at their own expense until the Atlanta club wins a game. Hasty recollection of the Crackers' recent efforts by wiser members of the Senate promptly tabled the resolution. These members realized they might be letting themselves into something they cannot financially afford.

Over in the House, a resolution was passed which expressed appreciation to the Atlanta ball club, which had opened its park doors to the lawmakers. It also noted that their presence at the park hadn't done much towards helping the Crackers win but did afford the fans the opportunity to boo at somebody besides the umpires.

The gentleman from Candler County noted the Crackers seemed to be headed for the Southern League cellar and suggested Earl Mann swap them for his home-town, last-place club, Metter, of the Ogeechee League.

Not Funny While the lawmakers were enjoying the lighter side of the situation, there was nothing funny about it out at Ponce de Leon Park.

From Earl Mann on down, the inhabitants of the ball park were in dazed conditions, symptoms of which closely resemble battle fatigue.

The reason was obvious to the brave fans who doggedly kept their seats for a full nine innings of any recent game: Everything is going wrong, and if there is any change, it probably will be for the worse.

The Crackers have lost 28 of their last 39 games. In none of their last 12 have they scored as many as four runs. There isn't a single .300 hitter in the line-up and in the past week alone, 17 errors were charged against them.

With such goings on, a club couldn't win in the businessmen's softball league, much less Class AA baseball.

That Bad? Is the club actually that bad?

Cliff Dapper doesn't know. The Cracker skipper sat dejectedly on a bench in the clubhouse after his team's second straight defeat by Chattanooga, staring at the floor.

"I've never seen anything like it," he said, more to himself than anybody else. "We take an hour's hitting practice every day, yet can't buy a base hit . . . especially ol' Dap himself. The guys are all trying, but in the clutch we boot one. We get a man on second with none out, and he stays there. I don't know what to do. Think I'll abandon hitting practice. At least, we can't do any worse."

Outside, Mann was walking around, talking to himself.

"Beats me," he muttered. "A month ago we were two games in first place. Now we are below .500."

Tried Everything Dapper has tried everything he knows to shake the slump. He has juggled the batting order and line-up, relaxed training regulations and applied all the other known jinx-breakers, including the uncrossing of bats.

But it still continues.

If there can be a bright feature of such a disastrous nose dive, it is the pitching staff. Al Hodkey, Bill Kennedy, Dick Hoover and Carl Lindquist have all pitched well enough to win in their last four or five starts, but the first rule of the game says the team which scores the most runs wins . . . and the Crackers haven't been getting any.

Maybe the approaching road trip will see the boys snap out of it and start a drive to finish in the first division and gain the play-offs. Third or fourth place is about all that can be hoped for now, conceding Nashville and Birmingham first and second.

Incidentally, if Atlanta does finish in the first division, let's hope it is in third rather than fourth place, because chances are the fourth club will be the one first to face the Nashville executioners in the play-offs.

HOMERS FEATURE FINALS

Lakewood Wins Crown, Beating Gainesville, 15-6

By JACK JACKSON
Constitution Sports Writer

CANTON — The Lakewood Redbirds practically drove Gainesville into nearby Etowah River here last night as they exploded for a 15-6 victory to win the Area 1 championship of the American Legion Junior Baseball Tournament.

The victory gives the Atlanta aggregation a berth in the State finals opening Sunday at Ponce de Leon Park. Making up the four-team play-off will be Macon, Albany and Savannah in addition to the Redbirds.

Lakewood's victory came as a result of five-run outbursts in the first and fourth innings. Claude Young, first man to face Eddie Byrd, who relieved starter Freddie Culbertson, climaxed the first-inning explosion when he homered with two mates aboard.

In the fourth, Earl Moore slammed one out of the park with the sacks full to account for four of the five runs in that frame.

Gainesville also figured in the home-run hitting when Randall Colbert hit one in the third with one on. Harold Grigg got an inside-the-park two-run homer in the fourth.

The Lakewood victory came at the expense of three Gainesville pitchers. After Culberson and Byrd, young Bobo Smith trotted out to the mound to open the fifth inning. He was tagged for the final five runs, giving up three of them in the seventh. Charlie McDaniel went the route for Lakewood.

Leading Hitters: Lakewood—Martin 3 for 5 (double), Young 3 for 5 (home run); Gainesville—Grigg 2 for 5 (home run); Colbert 2 for 2 (home run).

Macon Annexes Legion Title, 7-6

Special to The Constitution

THOMASTON — The Macon Buddies defeated the Thomaston Aces, 7-6, here last night to advance to the State finals of the American Legion Junior Baseball tournament opening in Atlanta Sunday.

Macon scored five of its runs in the fifth inning. Single tallies were registered in the first and sixth.

Thomaston scored two in the fourth, one in the sixth and threatened seriously in the eighth with three big markers but the rally fell short and Macon grabbed the area title.

Marshall Binford led Thomaston with two for three, while Holland and Newberry shared hitting honors for Macon, each collecting three safeties in four appearances.

Jinkie Jordan started for Macon and received credit for the win but he had to have relief from Inman Veal during the Thomaston uprising in the eighth.

Hoffman and Boyer Lose In Philadelphia Tourney

PHILADELPHIA— (AP) —Harry Hoffman and Dr. Bob Boyer, second and third seeded, respectively, were eliminated from the Eastern States Clay Court tennis singles championship at the Idle Hour Club yesterday.

Hoffman, former Philadelphia champion, was beaten by Ed Kilgus, ex-University of Pennsylvania player from Brockway, Pa., 0-6, 8-6, 6-4. Dr. Boyer, Middle States and Delaware State Champion, lost to Phil Dehuff, former Lehigh University tennis captain, 8-6, 6-1.

Crackers Bop 'Nooga, 16-10

Atlanta Scores 12 In 7th

By F. M. WILLIAMS

Starving for base hits, the Atlanta Crackers stuffed themselves to the gills in one inning last night, banging out 10 safeties and a dozen runs in the seventh frame for a 16-10 victory over the Chattanooga Lookouts before a crowd of 8,020 who came primarily to watch Jackie Price do his tricks, but stayed to see the ball clubs grab his glory by at least 2 to 1.

It was a good ball game until the seventh, when the Lookouts chased Bill Kennedy and Art Fowler to score four times and take an 8-4 lead. But after that the Crackers made it a rout, batting around almost twice, sending three hurlers to the showers and cinching the decision.

Jack Taylor, who relieved Fowler, was the winner, and Tony Lorenzo, the third Chattanooga hurler, was the loser.

The two teams end their series tonight at 8:15, with Cal Cooper hurling for the Lookouts and Norman Brown for Atlanta.

After Williamson had retired three men in order in the first inning, Charlie Woddail greeted him with a double to start the second. Chet Hajduk popped to second and Lloyd Gearhart struck out, but Gene Verble lashed a single through the box to drive Woddail home with the first run of the game.

Pierce McWhorter singled to deep short and Kennedy sliced a single to left to drive Verble home.

It was a short lived lead for the Crackers. Willie Miranda led off the third with a single. After Williamson flied to center, Junior Wooten singled to right. Ralph Weigel popped to Hajduk but Bob Reid lined a single to center, driving Miranda home.

Verble came up with a fine stop on Tom McBride's slow grounder but then threw wild to second and Wooten raced home on the error to tie the score.

It was the fifth before the Crackers could pierce Williamson for more runs, and it wasn't the Lookout hurler's fault altogether.

He walked Angel Fleitas to open the inning and Brown doubled off the right centerfield signs for one run. Brown went to third when Manager Fred Walters made a low throw back to Williamson and scored when Weigel dropped a throw from Walters that would have had the fleet outfielder caught off third.

Once again the Lookouts fought back to tie the score. Augie Bergamo opened the sixth with a single to right, and after Fleitas had flied out, Manager Walters and Miranda singled to center, loading the sacks.

After Williamson popped to second, Wooten singled to center and Bergamo and Walters came home with the tying runs.

Chattanooga surged into the lead for the first time in the seventh, sending Kennedy and then Art Fowler, his successor, to the showers.

Reid got his fourth hit, a single, to open the inning and Tom McBride followed with another one base blow. Fowler relieved Kennedy.

Bergamo bunted and when Fowler threw to third, all hands were safe. Andy Fleitas doubled to left center, driving in Reid and McBride. Manager Walters singled to center, scoring Bergamo and Andy Fleitas and Jack Taylor took over for Fowler. Taylor got the side out with no more damage but the Lookouts held a four run advantage.

The Crackers just wouldn't go down. They came back in their half of the inning to rout Williamson. R. Brown got his second double off the signs in right and Woddail singled to short right. Hajduk dropped a single into center, scoring Brown and when Gearhart walked to load the bases, Tony Lorenzo replaced Williamson.

Verble greeted him with a single to center, scoring Woddail and Hajduk. McWhorter bunted and beat it out for a hit, loading the bases again.

Dave Williams batted for Taylor and drew a walk, forcing in Gearhart with the tying run.

Lorenzo threw two balls to Morgan, and Woodie Johnson was waved in from the bull pen. He promptly threw two more balls to Morgan to force Verble across.

Angel Fleitas rammed a single to left and both McWhorter and Williams raced home, giving the Crackers seven runs for the inning and with no one yet to be retired.

After working the count to 3-2,

Billy Key Upset By Zimmerman

By BERT PRATHER
Constitution Sports Writer

RADIUM SPRINGS COUNTRY CLUB—Fourteen years ago Bill Zimmerman, of Augusta, then a brash youngster with all the shots in the book, romped to victory in the Georgia State Amateur golf championship over Rome's Coosa Country Club layout.

After all these years and several thousand golf shots Bill, now a family man who does not have too much time to devote to tournament play, finds himself thrust back into the golfing limelight as a result of his very splendid victory yesterday over Medalist Billy Key, the 18-year-old Columbus star, in the second round of play in the Twentieth Annual State Meet now in session here.

The margin was 2-up and placed Zimmerman in this morning's quarter-finals against a fellow townsman, young Mickey Gallagher, whose steady play yesterday afternoon earned him a two-up triumph over Atlanta's Dempsey Wright.

Both Key and Zimmerman shot consistent golf, Billy posting an even par 72 while the Augusta veteran was one stroke lower. Key was the victim of three stymies on the round. He was blocked on the fourth, ninth and eleventh greens. Billy lost four and eleven but managed a half on the ninth despite the man-made obstruction. Key won the medal in Tuesday's qualifying play with a five under par 67.

Dynamite Billy Goodloe, the Valdosta ace and pretournament favorite, continued to look impressive as he reached the round of eight with a fairly comfortable 4-3 triumph over former State Champion Jennings Jordon, of Rome, 4-3. Mr. Dynamite closed out the match with a birdie three on 15.

The Dynamiter's opponent this morning will be Radium Springs' hard-working President, Frank Hedrick. Frank raced to a 6-5 decision over Howell Hollis, of Athens, coach of the University of Georgia golf team. Hedrick was four up at the turn and one under when the match ended on thirteen.

In the top half of th draw, form prevailed, though in one instance it ok 21 holes of battling for the favorite to survive. Arnold Blum, who captured the 1946 State at Atlanta's Capital City Country Club, ran into all kinds of competition from Rome's Burgett Mooney, Jr., before he finally eked out his win on the third extra hole. They completed the first 18 all square with a pair of three under 69s. After halving the next two holes, Burgett missed the short 21st green and lost to Arnold's gimme par three.

Blum's opposition this morning will be cross-handed-playing Bob McCoy, the last remaining Atlanta hope. Bob turned back young Walker Inman, of Augusta, 1-up, after a ding-dong battle all the way. They were all square at the end of nine holes.

R. E. (Dick) Cherry, the Radium putting expert, and Jack Key, Jr., the other half of Columbus' famous brother team, complete the octet which starts teeing off at 9:30 a. m. this morning. Cherry rallied to oust 14-year-old Cecil Calhoun, of Columbus, on the eighteenth green, while Key did a workmanlike job in downing Johnny Carson, the Atlanta public links ace, 5-4. Jack was four up at the turn and never permitted Johnny to get back in the running thereafter.

Cherry was one down at the turn to the lad who Wednesday put out defending champion Dick Hackett, but went ahead by taking 12 and 14. Cecil came back to win 15 and 16 to again go 1-up, but Cherry was not to be denied, taking 17 and 18, the latter with a 20-foot putt which gave him a birdie four on the hole. Cecil can look back at a missed two-foot putt on nine for a win and see where the whole match could have been changed around.

Jack Key and Cherry are scheduled to lead off the quarter-finals this morning. The four survivors battle this afternoon, starting at 2:40 and 2:45 o'clock.

Mangrum, Harbert Set Pace

By MAURICE PUTNAM

ST. PAUL, Minn.—(AP)—The golfing wrecking crew took over th. Keller public course yesterday, and when they were through two of their number were tied for the lead in the Western Open tourney with 67's five strokes under par.

Tied at that figure were Chick Harbert, Detroit, and Lloyd Mangrum, Chicago, and right behind them with under-par cards were 24 other contestants. Eleven more matched par of 72 for the 6,557-yard course.

Harbert was the first in. He had just fair luck on the outgoing nine, making it in 35, one under par. He missed chopping another stroke off his out nine card but ran into a trap on the fifth hole to take a five, one over par. He cut one off regulation figures, however, on the second and third holes.

Mangrum played more consistent golf, getting a two-under-par 34 on the out nine and a three-under-par 33 coming in. He dropped a 15-foot putt for the tying count.

Tied at 68 were Ted Neist, Walla Walla, Wash.; Jimmy Demaret, Ojai, Calif.; Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, Tenn.; Bill Kaiser, Louisville, Ky.; and Jimmy Thomson, New York.

A stroke behind them were amateur Albert Besselink, Niles, Ill.; and professionals Ky Laffoon, St. Andrews, Ill.; Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.; Tony Holguin, Guadalajara, Mexico; E. J. "Dutch" Harrison, formerly of Little Rock, who has signed to play with the St. Andrews, Ill., club; and Fred Hawkins, of Antioch, Ill.

Harbert's showing was something of a surprise to the close followers of the game. Rated as a good player with the woods, Harbert's putting and approach shots have left something to be desired. But yesterday it was different. His approach shots were excellent. He dropped one 30-foot putt on the 15th hole and a 12-footer on the second.

Tag Match Tops Mat Card Tonight

The wrestling card tonight at the city auditorium is headed by a two-referee-tag-team match. The event is a return from last week with Johnny Long and Don McIntyre seeking revenge from Al Galento and Babe Zaharias.

Also featured is the return of the piledriver grappler, The Black Menace. The masked boy, unknown in these parts, will meet a newcomer, Frank Marconi, an old timer.

George Holmes has challenged and will meet Southern Champion Tom Mahoney in one of the three main events.

As a lid-lifter the promoter has pitted Charlie Harbin against Big Ben Morgan.

The matches start at 8:30.

Yanks Shade Indians, 3-2; Cards, Dodgers Surge On

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer

The victory was an important one because it pushed the Yanks four full games ahead of the runner-up Indians in the American League flag chase.

Here's how Stengel "outthought" Manager Lou Boudreau of the Tribe (with assists from Mapes and Page):

Allie Reynolds, seeking his eleventh victory, had a 3-2 lead when he yielded a single to Boudreau and a walk to Hal Peck to open the ninth. Boudreau had the fast Bob Avila run for him. Jim Hegan, the next batter, tried twice to sacrifice and missed. That sent the mental wheels grinding.

Stengel yanked Reynolds and and sent Page to finish pitching to Hegan. Boudreau countered by sending Early Wynn to hit for Hegan. Stengel came right back and moved Hank Bauer to left field and inserted the hard-throwing Mapes in right. Wynn cracked a drive to right; Mapes snared it; Avila tried for third after the catch and Mapes threw him out on a peg that didn't even bounce.

Page wound things up by getting Keltner on a slow roller.

Joe Gordon drove in both Indian runs. Bobby Brown scored the winning counter for New York in the fifth when he and Bauer singled and George Stirnweiss doubled.

Reynolds got that eleventh win, helping it along with a lusty triple in the fifth, which brought home Snuffy Stirnweiss, who also had tripled off Bob Lemon, the loser.

The Detroit Tigers, tied up with two out in the ninth, rallied for seven runs at Washington to beat the Senators, 13-7. Included in the attack was a grand-slam homer by Relief Pitcher Dizzy Trout who thus assured his third win. Sam Dente led the Senators with three singles and a double.

The Red Sox, getting seven-hit pitching from Ellis Kinder, racked up their fourth straight victory by 6-1 over the White Sox at Boston. The only run off Kinder was unearned. Ted Williams hit his twenty-sixth homer for Boston and Dom DiMaggio ran his hitting streak to 23 games with a double.

The Cards and Dodgers warmed up for their big series starting today by posting lopsided wins yesterday.

The Cards ripped the Phillies, 10-2, at Philadelphia for their eighth triumph in their last nine games. The Redbirds made 16 hits including two doubles and a single by Chuck Diering, while Lefty Al Brazle held the Phils to seven hits for his tenth win.

Gene Hermanski hit a grand slammer, and Jackie Robinson and Duke Snider hit bases-empty homers at Chicago as the Dodgers whipped the Cubs, 7-1. Ralph Branca went the route and scored a victory for the first time since June 29, his eleventh win of the campaign.

Sid Gordon's twentieth home run, coming with one on it the sixth, gave the Giants an 8-6 win over the Pirates at New York after the Giants had blown a five-run lead. Sheldon Jones was the winning pitcher in relief and Harry Gumbert, just acquired from the Reds, was a loser in his first appearance with the Pirates.

The Braves trounced the Reds, 11-2, at Cincinnati as Warren Spahn posted a six-hitter for his twelfth victory. There were four Braves' homers—by Bob Elliott, Al Dark, Del Crandall, and Elbie Fletcher.

The game between Philadelphia and St. Louis was rained out in Philadelphia.

Tony Baker Stages Brilliant Comeback To Win in National Junior Tourney

By DILLON GRAHAM

WASHINGTON—(AP)—An Atlanta youngster knocked the teen-agers' longest hitter out of the National Junior Amateur Golf championship yesterday.

Walter (Tony) Baker, a 17-year-old from Bobby Jones' home town, staged a brilliant comeback fight to eliminate Pat Schwab, of Dayton, another 17-year-old, 1-up in a hard-fought 19-hole battle.

Schwab, a 220-pound blonde, had been the envy of the other boys for his tremendous drives. He built up a three hole lead over Baker in the first 15 holes of their third-round match, only to see the Georgian fire two pars and a birdie on the eighteenth to tie the contest.

Then Baker, a handsome brown haired youngster who always seems in a good humor, drilled in a 15-foot putt for a win on the extra hole.

It was a tough one for Schwab to lose, particularly after he had made a gallant comeback himself in the morning round. Three down and five to play, he won the last five holes to whip John Ailes of North Benton, Ohio.

Baker, earlier in the day, had rallied from two down at the turn to trim Ed Merrins, Meridian, Miss., the Alabama-Mississippi medalist, 3-2, in a second-round match.

Dennis Bolster, a slightly-built Washington youngster, also turned in a prize upset by beating Donald Hughes, Lawndale, Cal., 1-up in 19 holes.

Hughes' 69 was the low score in the various regional qualifying tests for this tournament and he was figured to go far. Bolster had him three down at the turn, lost all his advantage and went to the eighteenth hole one down. But he won it and then copped the extra hole. Bolster had come from behind, too, in his morning match to beat Jack Moynihan, Troy, N. Y., 1-up.

The victories scored by Baker and Bolster establish them among the favorites as the tourney moves into today's fourth round.

This being a competition for 14 to 17 year olds, they're practically all unknowns. But from their play yesterday, Joe Turnesa, Jr., Ferndale, N. Y.; Mason Rudolph, Clarksville, Tenn.; Miles Schlapik, Chicago; William Morrow, Shreveport; and Eugene Spilker, Clayton, Mo., will bear watching.

Turnesa, son of one of the seven Turnesa brothers of professional golf, came on to win from Philip Jones, Westerly, R. I., in the third round after being two down through the fifteenth hole on Congressional's 6,350-yard par-71 layout.

Rudolph, a short youngster who wears glasses, outpointed James Grady, Cincinnati, 3-1 and has been right close to par through all his matches. He was a quarter-finalist last year.

Schlapik pulled one of the day's upsets by whipping Graham Hunt, Overland Park, Kans., 1-up. It was Hunt who had a 69 Wednesday, playing out the holes after he had ended his match, and was upset because he thought he should have had a 65. Hunt missed a five-footer on eighteen.

Morrow, playing steady golf, polished off Pat Moran, Akron, 4-3. Spilker only got in the tourney as an alternate but his play has been impressive and he was yesterday's hottest scorer, being just over par for the fifteen holes needed to beat George Fayen, Jr., Newhaven, 5-3.

George Fischer, of Louisville, Ky., who is the National Junior four-ball champion, also lost yesterday. He was defeated 1-up by Ronald La Fraugh, of Lansing, Mich.

GETS PROTECTION

Sportscaster At St. Louis Threatened

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Harry Caray, who broadcasts St. Louis Cardinal games, was guarded by detectives yesterday after the Cardinal management received an unsigned letter threatening the announcer.

The author of the letter, which was written in longhand and postmarked St. Louis, threatened to throw a tear gas bomb at Caray and warned the club to get someone else to broadcast its games.

Caray said he was approached Wednesday by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and discussed the letter with them but added "I have asked for no protection from the police or anyone else."

Members of a police squad kept Caray's radio booth at Sportsman's Park under surveillance during the game yesterday afternoon between the Cardinals and the Philadelphia Phils.

Winning Foursome Cards Minus Seven in Dogfite

Thomas B. Willard, Joe Heard, Hugh Wilson and Jock Hoerner composed the winning foursome in yesterday's dogfite at East Lake with a score of minus seven.

In second place with minus nine was the foursome of H. S. Jones, C. A. Barnes, T. B. Willard and Gene Brook.

BOB FELLER WAS RIGHT: BROKEN TOE DIDN'T KEEP HENRICH FROM HITTING

NEW YORK—(AP)—Cleveland's Bob Feller called the turn on the Yankees' Tommy Henrich.

Henrich broke the big toe on his right foot Monday night and was supposed to be sidelined.

"Wait until he finds out that I'm pitching," Feller predicted before yesterday's game. "I'll bet he'll insist on playing. That guy can hit me in the middle of the night, blindfolded and with two broken feet to boot."

Sure enough, Henrich played and socked a three-run homer off Feller in the first inning before rain washed everything from the record books.

Bernie Moore Scotches College Sports 'Czar' Idea

By BILL KING

NEW CASTLE, N. H.—(AP)—A suggestion that American intercollegiate sports, especially football, needs a national commissioner met with unanimous disapproval as the eleventh meeting of the National Association of Collegiate Commissioners closed yesterday.

As soon as the idea was mentioned — that intercollegiate athletics needs a supreme supervisor with the broad powers professional baseball has given A. B. (Happy) Chandler—it was promptly scotched by Bernie Moore, of Birmingham, Ala., the Southeastern Conference's representative.

As his nine cocommissioners nodded agreement, Moore said:

"I am a Rebel and a States Righter and, thereby, opposed to concentration of power or authority in any national office or organization.

"Most college administrations have to answer too many questions and questionnaires now—and a national commissioner of college sports would merely be another burden."

After a second session with Clarence P. Houston, of Tufts College, Chairman of the NCAA's Compliance Committee, the college sports czars, who represent more than 160 of the nation's top intercollegiate athletic powers, pledged their assistance to the so-called "sanity code," designed to curb eligibility violations.

"The commissioners can be particularly helpful to the compliance committee by aiding in investigations. Many 'sanity code' violations might be ended immediately by such prompt action," E. L. (Dick) Romney, the Mountain States commissioner from Logan, Utah, pointed out.

As the discussions along that line continued, Victor O. Schmidt, of the Pacific Coast Conference, gained unanimous approval of his statement that "there is a need for legislation by the NCAA against tryouts of prospective student athletes by colleges and subsidized trips to campuses by prospects. It is agreed that these practices tend unduly to place prospects under obligation to attend the colleges to which such trips are made."

The participation of college athletes with remaining eligibility in all forms of all-star or charity games again met with general disapproval.

And the ban on undergraduates playing Summer baseball and basketball, for which they receive payment, either as salary or living expenses, remained unchanged, as far as these sports supervisors were concerned.

CRACKERS

Ralph Brown got his second hit of the inning, a single to left, and Morgan scored. Woddail bunted and beat it out for another hit, loading the bases again.

Hajduk singled through the middle to send in Fleitas and Brown, but Gearhart popped to first to become the No. 1 out of the inning.

The parade resumed on the next pitch. Verble singled to center, scoring Woddail. Royce Chandler replaced Johnson on the mound.

After a passed ball had moved Hajduk and Verble up a base, McWhorter walked to load the sacks. That created the unusual spectacle of a pinch hitter batting twice in the same inning as Williams came to bat again. Williams drove a long fly to center field and Hajduk scored after the catch. Morgan finally ended it by grounding out.

Every Cracker came to bat twice in the inning except Angel Fleitas.

SHORT NOTES—Jackie Price gave the crowd a good 30 minutes' show, demonstrating how to throw three baseballs at one time to three different people, hitting balls in different directions on one swing, and catching flies while driving a jeep at full speed in the outfield. . . . Jim Bagby and Carl Lindquist, Cracker pitchers, helped the comedian put on his show.

Up until last night the Crackers hadn't scored more than three runs in any one of their last 12 games. . . . Miranda made a brilliant stop of McWhorter's hit in the second inning but his snap throw to second was a little late to catch Verble.

R. Brown stole his twenty-sixth base in the third inning. . . . It was a close play and the Lookouts argued. . . . They had a hard time getting a word in edgewise, however, with Umpire Malesky, who not only called the play but did most of the arguing thereafter.

Weigel fielded grounders by Woddail and Hajduk in the third inning but both times pulled Reid off the bag and Bob had to tag the runners. . . . Chattanooga was still playing with three catchers in the lineup, all on the infield. . . . Behind the bat is Weigel in Andy Fleitas' proper place.

Morgan bunted in the sixth and beat it out for a hit. . . . When Weigel threw wild to first, "Rusty" raced to third, much against the protest of Manager Walters, who thought it should have been only a one-base advance on the error.

Barons Slap Vols in Dell By 13-5 Score

By EDWIN POPE
United Press Sports Writer

Birmingham turned the worm on Nashville last night, using Sulphur Dell for its personal power paradise in hammering out a 13-5 slaughter and reducing the Vols' Southern Association lead to three games.

Numerically, it was hit for hit. But the Barons included two home runs—a grand-slam blow by Jim Atkins, his fourteenth, and another route clout by George Strickland.

Jim McDonald caught victory No. 11 by keeping cautious gaps between 13 Vol hits. Lee (Bobo) Holloman, Vol ace hunting his fourteenth victory, was knocked out in the third inning and took the loss.

It was the first Baron triumph in the Dell in five games.

Johnny Klippstein's seven-hitter enabled Mobile to thump Little Rock 9-5 and protect its hold on fourth place. Klippstein's eleventh mound credit was supported by 10 Bear hits off loser Neal Saulia.

Rocky Krsnich slammed his eleventh and twelfth home runs but his Memphis Chicks bowed to New Orleans, 9-3. Francis Barrett kept the rest of the Chicks under control, ending with an eight-hit total and his ninth win against only two losses. Marv Rothlatt suffered his sixth loss.

Attorney General Cook Has the Goods

Atty. Gen. Cook, of Georgia, has a confession and "evidence to go before a grand jury" of corruption in Georgia.

That's good. We are glad he is going before a grand jury.

We hope the confession, reportedly of "small fry," will provide sufficient leads for catching the "big fry."

Atty. Gen. Cook has done a real service and we know the people will want him to continue digging and turning over all the rocks which may be covering up the guilty.

They Say the Courthouse Is 'Nervous'

Reports from the Courthouse are that the atmosphere there, since the sensational turns of the Carpenter case, in which a controversial civil court judge of Fulton County was arrested for shooting at his estranged wife's attorney, has become jumpy and tense.

We think it might be well for the next grand jury, which is to be an investigating jury, to go thoroughly into the county affairs. Judge Carpenter was charged by his wife with being an owner of liquor stores. He denied it and there is no official proof of it. But, obviously suspicious that all was not right in the county's handling of the liquor business, the last grand jury recommended that a law be passed requiring sworn statements of ownership. The State Department of Revenue has uncovered irregularities, including one perjured statement as to ownership. Judge Carpenter's decision to run for the County Commission, a decision later withdrawn, caused consternation in the Courthouse circles. Gossip was his proposed race was one of "revenge." Since then there has been constant gossip about "influences" at work.

The grand jury list has been enlarged. It will no longer be reasonable for many of the same persons to keep showing up on it. We went through a scandal about that. If the Courthouse is nervous there must be some reason.

Do the police, who set the bond, mean to say that if some obscure person, without Courthouse friends, had pursued another person down the street and had fired holes through his car, the bond in such a case would have been $500? We certainly are neither pro nor con in the Carpenter case. We view it simply as sordid and unwholesome for the community. The point is, it already has brought embarrassment to the judiciary and firm measures are required.

A Courthouse set-up can get too "comfortable."

One employee at the Courthouse telephoned to say, "They are all afraid Judge Carpenter is going to talk."

That is an ambiguous statement, and we do not know whether it is sound or not. We hope it will be beneficial if it does happen. But we still think a good tough investigation would help.

Georgia Power's New Manager

We think the Georgia Power Company made a happy and wise choice in selecting Harllee Branch, Jr., as Vice President and General Manager.

Mr. Branch is one of the city's outstanding attorneys. He began practice here in 1931 after working his way through Davidson College and Emory University Law School. He also worked for a while as a reporter on The Constitution.

Mr. Branch is completely familiar with affairs of the Power Company. He has handled the Company's legal matters since, when he first began practice, he became connected with the firm that serves as general counsel.

We offer our congratulations to him, and to the Power Company. It puts another Georgia man in management along with C. B. McManus, the President, and others on the staff, and makes the Company more "Georgian."

That Poll Tax Bill Problem

A bill to abolish the poll tax has passed the House in Washington and goes to the Senate.

There it will die, the Administration not being willing to bring on a filibuster at this time, with adjournment nearing and vital business at hand.

Georgia has no poll tax. It is old stuff, anyhow, remaining in only seven States. We agree that it does, as a Southerner in Arkansas said the other day, "enfranchise the dishonest poor and disenfranchise the honest poor."

We don't think the bill is constitutional.

We think the States should do the job themselves, but some of them won't.

Also, it is worth calling attention to the fact that the Dixiecrats were saying a year ago to let us alone and we would maintain law and order. Now, the Klan floggers are scampering over the landscapes of Alabama and a few in Georgia and adjoining States. We are not keeping order. We are not standing for law.

So, we suggest the Senators say, "The poll tax is no longer worth an argument. It it not constitutional to pass a law interfering with the States in this matter. So, to get rid of your clamor go ahead and pass the bill and let the Supreme Court pass on it."

THOMAS L. STOKES

The Challenge to Byrd in Virginia

WASHINGTON—Neighboring Virginia has an election next Tuesday, a primary for Governor, that has interest far beyond her borders, not to speak of considerable interest right here in the national capital next door. This is because the famous "Byrd machine," directed by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, is seriously challenged by an insurgent movement of evident vitality within the Democratic Party. The Byrd machine candidate for Governor, State Sen. John S. Battle, is being hard pressed in a revolution of anti-Byrd forces headed up on its candidate for Governor, Col. Francis Pickens Miller, who is in the Southern Progressive tradition. The contest lies between these two, though there are two other candidates in the Democratic primary.

This election is significant because Sen. Byrd has become the symbol of conservative revolt within the Democratic Party against its Progressive elements. He was the conservative champion against Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal as he is against Harry Truman's Fair Deal. The conservative wing of the party, largely concentrated in the South, has looked to him for leadership, guidance and respectability, and he is an eminently respected figure.

Richmond, the capital where his henchmen so long have ruled, has become the capital of a sort of modern Confederacy. Movements of revolt in the South in recent years have had considerable direction from there. Harry Byrd is the modern Jeff Davis in business clothes and without the chin whiskers.

Consequently, a defeat, or even a narrow victory, for the Senator's organization in this election would have its effect throughout the South. It would encourage the Progressive forces there as elsewhere. Likewise, it is no secret that it would hearten President Truman. Though he has kept hands off in this inter-party fight in Virginia, he has watched development with interest. Not only did the Byrd machine try to keep his name off the ballot in Virginia last year, without avail in the end, but Sen. Byrd has continued his fight on the Truman Fair Deal in Congress to the point where President Truman blurted out to a delegation of the American Veterans' Committee in his office a few weeks ago:

"There are too many Byrds in Congress!"

Senator Byrd, himself, is up for re-election in 1952 and a defeat this year would dim his prestige.

Something clearly is stirring in Virginia, apparently the same sort of tide that in recent months has been running against entrenched political machines elsewhere. This is being capitalized by Col. Miller, a veteran of both World Wars, a leader of progressive causes in Virignia and nationally, formerly a member of the Legislature, who is crying out against "invisible government." He is calling upon the voters to overthrow the Byrd oligarchy with its tight courthouse control and restore real democracy to Virginia so it will be possible to do things for the people which the Byrd regime has neglected to do. He has rallied support among labor, veterans, women and independents in a sort of people's crusade against bossism. He is appealing to State pride and tradition by urging that Virginia resume her proper role in the party and in the nation as a progressive, forward-looking State.

The Byrd machine admittedly has the advantage of organization. It has been one of the most efficient political machines in the country. It has maintained control through a restricted franchise and the careful distribution of patronage. Basically its theory is that government should be in the gentlemanly tradition and kept safely within the hands of a few conservative leaders. As a result, too little has been done for the rank-and-file citizens. Virginia ranks low among the states in several particulars, including education, which is conceded by all candidates in their emphasis on better educational facilities as a leading issue.

One of four candidates, Horace N. Edwards, former mayor of Richmond, is advocating a two percent sales tax for education. Formerly a Byrd machine leader, he resigned as State Democratic Chairman to enter the Governor's primary. This is interpreted by some as an indication that he, at least, may feel that the Byrd machine is cracking. The other candidate, Remmie L. Arnold, a Petersburg pen manufacturer, represents the very conservative business element in the State.

How much of a vote these two concededly minor candidates may attract, and from which of the major candidates they draw most, undoubtedly will affect the outcome of the Battle-Miller contest. Experts agree the race will be close. For the first time in Virginia's history Republicans have a gubernatorial primary of their own, in which Walter Johnson, of Heathville, is the uncontested candidate.

Our Own Rules Bar Better Government

Let it be said at the outset that I am not thumping the tubs for fewer counties. I know there are too many of them, but the way is open for county consolidation whenever the people want it. It is not a force measure. If the people are willing to keep on accepting poor schools and poor government whose every service is third rate, it is a free country and they can keep right on doing so.

But this does not obscure, in this time of talk about taxes and government, the basic cause of at least some of our sickness as a State. The facts are that our own rules—the rules we have made for ourselves—make it impossible to bring about a cure.

There are about 40 to 50 of our 159 counties which, political experts have told me across many years, vote so few people, are so wretchedly poor, they long ago lost all political ethics and can be "changed" right up to, and including, the night before election. Some, indeed, put the number at 60. I do not make these charges. I believe them.

If— If they be true, as the men who have been able to "change" them say it is true, then what we have is 40 to 50 counties, which vote a few hundred persons, most of whom in one way or another, are related or obligated to the courthouse boys; but which in a very real sense are the most important counties in the State because by virtue of our unit system they can be, and very often are, the balance of power in a State contest. The theory of the "good man" runs headlong into this harsh fact.

These counties react not at all to any progressive suggestion. The men who control them do not want any change. They discourage any new industry in their counties. They have, in effect, come to regard their counties as their personal property. They use them carefully in political trading and will not hesitate, say the men who have dealt with them, to switch over at the last minute no matter what former commitments have been made, if by so doing they can get on the bandwagon and be in a position to demand a larger slice of pie.

Talk This long has been common talk in the camps of all the factions. Those of Talmadge, Rivers, Arnall. Thompson and others, at election times. As I say, never having been in on the buying or persuading of a county, I know nothing of my own knowledge, but I have heard it through the years from the leaders of all factions and I do not question it.

This, I submit, is not at all a matter of consolidation of counties, but is a matter of government. These small counties pay the salaries of county officials who work, at best, a few hours a week. The handling of the ad valorem tax, for example, requires almost no work at all, since the homestead exemption act and the habit of many assessors of allowing low valuations, leaves little al valorem tax to be collected. Yet it remains as a full-time, annual job. This, plus the other assets of such a position, is what they guard.

I am not, I repeat, suggesting or initiating a campaign for the end to this venality, waste and foolishness. If the people want it they can have it, that being our custom. But it is possible to wonder why they want it. It is something worth discussing. It prevents good, efficient government. It compromises candidates.

Appeals It is a fact that in those counties where the citizens occasionally begin to wonder out loud about it, the appeal to patriotism and the calls to defend the sacred name and traditions of dear old Siwash County, almost inevitably come from some person who has leaped out of the chair leaned against the big shade tree on the courthouse lawn to rally the patriots to the defense.

There is some merit and truth in the claim that a balance of the rural interests against those of the city is a good thing, but this is true only to a limited degree. If we are becoming a people of cities, with fewer and fewer persons left on the land, then we will have to work out a plan of farm aid and farm assistance which will not ignore the fact the majority of people live in urban communities where needs differ.

Argument The argument falls flat when we consider how the political leaders of all factions look with contempt and cynical amusement upon the fact that, according to their estimate, about a fourth of our small counties are venal and have, in any reasonably close election or primary, the balance of power.

This, if true, and there seems to be no dispute about it, means that we do not have a balance of town and county, but a deference to venality. An honest candidate must compromise himself so long as he faces defeat because of the rules.

In other words, our own rules make it impossible for us to have more honest elections, to attract more able men as candidates, to obtain better government and a more wholesome State.

There are without doubt too many counties, many of which are out-and-out parasites in no manner justifying their existence, and whose people would get a better break in some intelligent consolidation with neighboring counties with assets and with county governments of ability. But the people rarely seem to care. The way is open to those who want it. Until that way is taken, we must assume everyone is content and happy to live in those counties which are not doing the job of providing first-rate government and services—and can never hope to do so—but must exist as a bloc against efficient government.

There's Still a Chance in Burma

RANGOON, Burma—Here as elsewhere in Asia, the nationalist leaders who are now trying to govern Burma are rather like intelligent but neurotic adolescents. They are adolescent in their lack of experience of the hard realities of power and politics. And they are neurotic in the obsessive fear of losing their hard-won independence.

Yet, because Burma's leaders are also highly intelligent, they are capable of learning. They are now learning some difficult lessons. It is this which makes it possible to say that the mess which is Burma today is not a hopeless mess.

Lessons The first lesson, which they have already learned, is that Communists are Communists. Like Indonesia's, Burma's nationalist government had originally a strong fellow-traveling coloration. Every possible effort was made to appease the Communists. When the Communists, nevertheless, took up arms against the government, in obedience to the Kremlin's Asian strategy, the fellow-traveling tinge began rapidly to fade, although it has not yet faded out entirely.

The second lesson which the Burmese leaders are learning is that they must have a settlement with the rebellious Karens. As long as the tough Karens are in revolt, Burma will remain a quivering jelly which the Chinese Communists will ultimately consume with ease. If the authority of the government is to be re-established, the Karens must be transformed from the enemies of the government into its active allies.

The third lesson has been, for quite understandable reasons, the most difficult to learn. It is simply that without some help from the outside, the mess in Burma will never be cleared up, and the Communists will inherit the power which the British surrendered.

Fears This lesson has been so difficult because the Burmese leaders react to anything that smacks of "intervention" as though they had been flicked with a whip in an open wound. They are obsessed with the fear that somehow the British, or even perhaps the Americans, will seize power in Burma. However unreasonable this fear may be, it is necessary to recognize its existence to understand not only what is going on here but elsewhere in Asia. "You've got to remember," remarked one astute American here, "that they're as scared of us as they are of the Communists."

This is still partly true, but it is a great deal less true than it was only a few months ago, when it was impossible to help the government of Burma simply because the government refused all help. Now, by way of contrast, the Burmese leaders are reluctantly considering the possibility of outside mediation in their dispute with the Karens, which is probably the only way a settlement with the Karens can be achieved. Moreover, they are nervously toying with a British Commonwealth offer of aid in the form of money and arms. They are inspecting the offer from every possible angle, to make sure that no imperialist strings are attached, but they have gone so far as to send Vice Premier Ne Win to London to talk things over. And, finally, Premier Thakin Nu has made an open bid for American capital investment in Burma, which would have been unthinkable a few months ago.

Opportunity Thakin Nu's bid is hardly likely to find an eager response now, simply because any capitalist would be mad to invest a dollar in Burma today. Yet, if only the mess can be cleared up in time, through a settlement with the Karens and help from the Commonwealth, there will be breath-taking opportunities for economic development in this rich country, with its huge unexploited coal and oil reserves and its great food surplus. With peace, capital investment, and technical assistance, a sudden, sharp rise in the standard of living of the people here is wholly predictable.

Thus a Burma with a political and economic structure sufficiently strong permanently to withstand the Communist drive south in Asia is at least possible. But it is no more than possible. It is based on a whole series of ifs—if a settlement with the Karens can be reached, if effective economic and military aid is forthcoming from the British Commonwealth, if the necessary capital and technical assistance comes from the United States, above all, if there is time to clean up the mess before the Chinese Communist armies reach the borders of Burma.

'Nothing Like It for Tobacco'

MARIA ELENA, Chile—I remember the bags, marked CHILEAN NITRATE, with which Toombs County farmers would load down their wagons or the back of their pickups at the start of fertilizer season. I can hear them now . . .

"They tell me tobacco's gonna bring a good price this year, Mr. Quitman. I figure I can pay off that note by August if'n you'll just advance me a little more so I can get me some nitrate. Ain't nothing like nitrate for tobacco . . ."

Chile produces all the world's natural nitrate, 1,750,000 tons of it a year. The nitrate deposits stretch over an area some 400 miles in length. And it would come as a shock to the Toombs County farmers who value it so highly as fertilizer to see that, in the section from which it comes, there is not a shrub or tree, not a weed or leaf of grass, not even, in fact, a cactus. But that is because the Chilean desert is one of the world's driest areas, with less humidity than the Sahara.

However, in the interest of accuracy, I must report that stories to the effect that it rains here only every 20 years or so are exaggerated. I talked today to a man who has been here since 1913 and he recalls distinctly having seen it rain four times.

Nitrate was formerly mined by hand, in relatively small quantities, and precipitated by the so-called Shanks Process, which was considerably expensive. As a consequence, after World War I, Chilean nitrate was hard put to meet the competition of the synthetics produced by methods developed by German scientists to meet the Kaiser's military needs. Many of Chile's small Shanks Process plants went under.

But there was a man named E. A. Cappelen Smith, an engineer employed at the nearby Chuquicamata copper mines, who used to wonder, as he rode over the hundreds of miles of nitrate deposits between Chuquicamata and the port of Tocopilla, why the leaching process used in the extraction of copper could not be applied to nitrate. He finally sold his idea to the Guggenheim interests, who owned Chuquicamata at the time, and they spent $30,000,000 erecting a plant at a place called Maria Elena, named for Cappelen Smith's wife, Mary Helen, long before the songwriters borrowed the name.

The Cappelen Smith, or "Guggenheim Process," as it ironically came to be called, saved the natural nitrate industry. It is done almost entirely mechanically and is able profitably to process ore running as low as seven percent whereas the Shanks method operated at a loss if the nitrate content ran less than 20 percent. So successful was the plant at Maria Elena, which began operation in 1926, that another was built at nearby Pedro de Valdiva in 1931.

Between them, they produce 63 percent of Chile's nitrate, to do which they daily process 66,000 tons of ore. The scope of their operations is naturally fabulous. Despite the fact that everything possible is done mechanically, a working force of nearly 12,000 is employed. They have their own railroad, 150 miles long, to carry the nitrate to their own port, Tocopilla, where seven ships were loading the day I visited.

There has been as yet no falling off in the demand for nitrates. But well do the Chilean nitrate people realize that the many additional synthetic nitrate plants constructed during the last war will be fighting for business once things really get competitive again.

Of course they find some reassurance in the fact that natural nitrate has been in demand since 1830 and, although 93 percent of the market is now held by synthetics, many farmers still demand the Chilean product if only for the additional substances—boron, iodine, potash and even small amounts of copper and zinc—which nature put into the natural product.

"Chemistry may be able to imitate our product," say the natural nitrate men confidently. "But it'll never be able to duplicate its impurities."

THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

The Constitution welcomes letters on either side of any subject. They should not exceed 200 words and must be signed although names will be withheld on request. We regret none can be returned. Address all letters to Editor Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Why?

Editor Constitution: What kind of Governor and Legislature have we that asked the people last Spring to vote on whether they wanted more taxes? The vote was overwhelmingly no. Now you have done it anyhow. Why did you spend our tax money last Spring on a ridiculous referendum? And why spend more of our money on re-registration?

Certainly we want better roads, and want the teachers paid a decent wage as well as the other State services, but this can be accomplished with the present State income if managed economically.

Thompson Did Better

Editor Constitution: For the fellow who voted wrong and who signed himself as a voter from Marietta, let me say this:

We do have free driver's licenses but we pay double for fishing licenses and the doctors have not been given a raise at the State Hospital.

Talmadge is building scarcely any roads. And on top of all this, the Talmadge administration is going to raise everybody's tax. Mr. Thompson ran the State on much less than Talmadge is asking and he did a good job of it. Also, Georgia needs all the industries she can get and Talmadge is raising the corporation tax. This tax may keep industry out of Georgia.

Bombing and Production

Editor Constitution: This letter is written in reference to your editorial of this date, "The B-36 Probe Begins." The writer of this letter would like to quote part of one of your paragraphs:

"Obviously, we must have strategic bombing. Strategic bombing of transport facilities has proved particularly effective, though bombing of factories failed to slow German production during the war."

I agree with you on the part of the strategic bombing of transport facilities has proved particularly effective, but it is past my way of thinking how you make the unqualified statement that the bombing of factories failed to slow German production during the war. Probably the source of your material in making that statement was unobtainable to the high command of World War II and their predecessors. Just think of the lives, the time, and the money that could have been saved had they known that the bombing of factories was in vain.

However, regardless of your statement, I agree that both strategic and tactical bombing are essential in the defense planning of our country. Also, the importance of air-ground co-ordination cannot be stressed enough.

Canton. GEORGE D. COOKSEY, JR.

Editor's Note: "In the course of two and a half years (from 1942), the military output of Germany in aircraft, weapons and ammunition was raised more than threefold; in tanks, over sevenfold."—Page 32, U. S. Strategic Bombing Survey. German plane production rose from 21,000 planes in 1943 to 35,000 in 1944. In February, 1944, for example, U. S. bombers dropped 4,000 tons of bombs on plants accounting for 90 percent of Germany's fighter plane production. About 75 percent of the buildings were damaged or destroyed. Yet, seven weeks later Germany was producing fighters at a rate more than double that before the raids took place.

Same Tales---Long Ago

Editor Constitution: I have just finished reading "The Lotus Spell of Nacoochee" and enjoyed it very much. No doubt you wonder why the interest, but some twenty-five years ago I listened to those same tales of Hawshaw and his thousand slaves, I think, from the same Mr. Bristol. I was a Boy Scout 12 years of age. We then had our camp at Sky Lake which I believe was the home of the Asa Candlers. As Bristol said, where the lodge now stands Hawshaw buried those Negro slaves who died and were killed. I went to sleep many nights hearing Negroes screaming and seeing them walking around the woods near the lodge (in my imagination).

One of the Scouts whom I became very fond of was S. B. Tolar, Jr., of Young Harris, who was quite a consolation to me after the sun had set behind the Indian graves across the lake from the lodge. In reading your piece, I wonder if these same memories are stirred in the minds of S. B and those other fellows who would beg for just one more story from Mr. Bristol. Then I wonder, too, if this Victor Bristol is the same man I am thinking of because, if I am not too badly mistaken, I noticed a piece in your paper sometime past announcing his death. I wrote him several times the way we knew him, as V. G. Bristol.

I enjoy your editorials and writings very much. More power to you.

HAROLD MARTIN

He Won't Leave His Rocker Again

TATE MOUNTAIN—I have called off my feud with my neighbor down the mountain, for he at the moment is in great pain, and it is, in one sense, my fault. He is a reflective type of man who has long contended that any type of physical exercise is very bad for the system, and in adhering strictly to this theory he spends his days on his front porch, gazing pityingly out across the lake at others more athletic who work themselves into a state of exhaustion rowing boats, flogging the waters in an effort to catch a fish, or swimming about until they drag themselves out on the dock, panting like lizards.

His theory is that man is not an aquatic animal. If he had been, the Lord would have constructed him with gills and fins, or would have made him amphibious, like a turtle. Since He did neither of these things, my friend has contended that man is not supposed to go into any water deeper than that contained in a bathtub, and even this much submersion must not be attempted too frequently.

In consequence, each day when I drive by his house and inquire, in a neighborly manner, whether or not he would ride over to the dock and go swimming, he declines with great politeness and gives me a brief and erudite lecture on the shortcomings of swimming as a sport.

Too great a devotion to the baths, he points out, was one of the causes contributing to the decline and fall of Rome, and he expresses the belief that this country is going the same way. Our pioneer ancestors were a hardy race, he points out, and they would no more think of shedding their buckskins to plunge into an icy mountain lake than they would think of leaping headlong into the bottomless pit. It is only since the country has become a nation of sun bathers and beach dawdlers, he contends, that we have begun to lose our toughness.

The other afternoon, though, he is in a less stubborn mood than usual, for some reason, and when I inquired if he will not take his feet down off the rail and come swimming, he looks hesitant. So I press the invitation, and bless my soul, to everybody's great surprise, he comes along. He strides out on the dock, wearing a pair of trunks he evidently had stowed away in moth balls since the time of the Chicago World's Fair, and, amid the loud applause of the startled onlookers who are familiar with his well-known aversion to swimming, he poises on the side ready to leap in. He makes several inquiries as to the temperature of the water, one of his favorite theories being that the sudden shock of jumping into cold water places a great strain on the heart. After I assure him that the water is as warm as milk, he gathers his resources and leaps in.

I note at once that a look of pained surprise comes over his face and I attribute it to the fact that he has jumped into a cold spot, where submarine springs bubble icily up from the bottom. He does not, though, bellow and snort, as a man naturally would who has jumped into cold water which he thought was warm. He says nothing, but climbs up the ladder, seats himself on the dock, and looks wonderingly at his foot. There is a great gash in the bottom of it from which the blood is pouring. He looks at me with grimness.

"I told you," he said, "that any man who would leave the safety of his front porch to expose himself to dangers which he cannot see, is a fool. What did I jump on?"

Somebody fished around and found what he had struck—a coffee can—used by some fisherman as a container for bait and carelessly tossed into the water to maim the first luckless wader who came along to step on it.

Fortunately, among the loungers on the dock were a couple of young medical students, who rushed him to Jasper to the hospital.

"And there, bless my soul," he said later, "I turn into a guinea pig. The doctor examines my wound and gives them a full description of it, lasting about 15 minutes, using technical terms which I cannot understand. Then he shoots in the novocaine, which causes me to leap half off the table, and he explains to them that my violent reaction to the needle is due to the fact that the sole of the foot contains many nerve endings and is therefore very sensitive. Then he explains that it is necessary to take in a sufficient amount of tissue when placing the sutures, and he pokes me with the suturing needle and I jump about four feet again, and he explains to them that this is due to the fact that in being sure that he was taking in enough tissue he inadvertently got beyond the area that had been affected by the anesthesia.

"So, for 13 stitches they get a perfectly splendid medical lecture which no doubt will be very valuable to them in later years. But nobody paid any attention to me at all and I do not get any of the soothing bedside manner which a man has a right to expect when he is in great anguish."

I am happy to report, though, that he is back home now and is being waited on hand and foot, and all the neighbors are coming by to ask him how he is feeling and he is basking in this attention and is, I think, secretly glad that he is going to be an invalid for awhile, for fathers do not get too much attention around this place, which is heavily infested with young folks who go and come ceaselessly in pursuit of their own affairs.

And I think he is also secretly pleased that his conviction that no man in his right mind would engage in anything so foolish as paddling around in a lake when he has a comfortable porch to sit on, has been borne out—though it did require drastic and painful measures to prove his point.

Just Calm Yourself, Miss May

In Memphis Commercial-Appeal

In tones sadder than those with which Freedom shrieked when Kosciusko fell, Miss May Cresswell, Mississippi State Home Demonstration Agent at State College, has lifted her voice in protest against assorted recipes for "Southern corn sticks" which have appeared in the public prints lately.

"Take one and a half cups of corn meal, one cup flour, three tablespoons sugar, etc.," the recipes read with relentless persistence, so Miss May reports, and her outcry of anguish has been swelled by a chorus from Mississippi housewives who know better.

"I asked Sallie Hill, of the Progressive Farmer, and she says it is not Texas corn bread," says Miss May. "I hate to reopen this old controversy, but somebody ought to take action."

Seems that these "expert" recipes always fail to specify water-ground meal, and it from yellow corn. Not a word about bacon drippings, either.

Take a pinch of saleratus, Miss May, and calm yourself. Tell the ladies to calm themselves, too. Folks who have been making honest-to-goodness corn bread won't be misled by those recipes, and the others won't know the difference. They're the ones who take an apricot half and a few dabs of cottage cheese to manufacture quasi-edible daisies for party consumption, but that's not legitimate provender.

FRED OTHMAN

A Judge Can't Judge When He's Hungry

WASHINGTON—A dozen Federal judges hung their threadbare robes on the wall, packed box lunches, and hurried to Washington via day coach to plead for a raise in wages. Their general idea, expressed in language judicial, seemed to be that it's tough to hand out justice when you're worrying about the grocery bill.

The hungry jurists were in something of a spot. Even in a seersucker suit a judge is supposed to be dignified, but how can a fellow look impressive when he's standing with his hat in his hand, asking the boss, please, for a raise?

The justices solved that one in part by bringing along some of their constituents, consisting of the lawyers practicing before their bars, who agreed that it's a disgrace to pay a Federal district judge only $15,000 per year.

While the magistrates nodded their heads, mostly snowy, Pres. Henry W. Beer, of the New York, New Jersey and Connecticut Federal Bar Association, summed up their thoughts.

"The lawyers of New York have been deeply grieved about the way Congress has mistreated our Federal judges . . . like Orphan Annies," he said. "There's only one way to get justice and that's from judges who have peace of mind."

Several more legal lights spoke in similar vein and then the judges mostly acting embarrassed about the whole idea, put their plight up to the House Judiciary Committee. Before the Committee was a couple of bills to boost judges' wages $5,000 per year.

Circuit Judge John E. Miller, of Fort Smith, Ark., for instance, said he was having his own troubles getting by on his $15,000. He said he hadn't noticed that it cost less to live in Fort Smith than anywhere else; he added that the price of sending his boy to college was the same as if he lived in a big city.

District Judge Royce R. Savage, of Tulsa, Okla., an intense little man behind rimless eyeglasses, put the proposition like a geometry problem: (1) The stability of the Government depends on the confidence of the people in their courts. (2) Judges, therefore, must be able men. (3) And how are you going to hire a good judge for $15,000?

Several other judges talked along the same lines and the Congressmen were indicating deepest sympathy when, suddenly, all hands got a jolt. Judge Murrary Hulbert, of New York, had thought through this raise business.

He was all for the extra $5,000 for his fellow jurists, but he wasn't much interested in it for himself. Just being a Federal judge was a great satisfaction to him.

"And as for this increase," he said, "it doesn't mean much to me. I will get $1,100 more per year if the raise is granted; Uncle Sam will take back the other $3,900 in income taxes."

His fellow jurists went, ulp. I can't say I blame 'em. For what's the use of a raise if the boss makes you kick back four fifths of it? That's the question now before the court and its answer should be of interest to all the rest of us.

WESTBROOK PEGLER

Who Picked Up the Rest of the Check?

NEW YORK—As I have reported before, David Katz, alias Karr, formerly of the Communist Daily Worker in New York and a contributor to other papers on the Communist front, has been a "leg-man" for Drew Pearson in Washington for several years. Katz went to Charles G. Ross, the President's secretary, early in 1947 and warned him that if Gen. Harry H. Vaughn did not, by a "zero hour," cease opposition to a certain design that Pearson was trying to put over, Pearson would "blast" Vaughan on the air and in print.

The public was not to know of the secret reason for this abuse of Vaughan. Pearson wanted a passport for George C. Vournas, a Graeco-American lawyer. Pearson was trying to send Vournas, disguised as a journalist, to Greece as a hitch-hiker with an official economic mission. Actually, Vournas is a partisan politician with axes to grind.

This was in January, 1947, five months after Dictator Tito, of Jugoslavia, had shot down in flames and killed five young American Army aviators. Vournas had secret intentions to make his way to Belgrade.

The Greek Embassy and the Greek Orthodox Church in Washington asked President Truman to refuse Vournas a passport. Involved in a war with an organized Communist army supported by Russia, they believed Vournas was hostile to the Government. He claims he never was a Communist. He says his brother, John, is, or anyway was, a soldier in the Communist guerilla army. Vournas is on friendly terms with the Yugoslav Embassy and the Embassy was cordial to his plan to visit Tito.

The wife of David Karr, Madeline Karr, formerly Madeline Babotz, or Barotz, has had a peculiar career as a journalist of sorts in Washington.

For about 18 months Madeline Karr frequented the White House under credentials issued to her as the correspondent of the National Herald, of New York, a Greek paper. This paper, which is 35 years old, never had an accredited correspondent at the White House before. It has had no correspondent there since her assignment ended on July 30, 1947. Its circulation during her assignment at the White House was about 8,000. Under new ownership and with a Royalist political attitude as to Greece, it has advanced to about 13,000.

On Feb. 13, 1946, the National Herald asked the State Department for a passport for Madeline Karr so that she could go to Athens to cover the elections. This request was signed by Basil Vlavianos, then the proprietor and publisher. Vlavianos editorially supported the Communist element in Greece and was a vice chairman of the Greek-American Council, which was listed by Atty. Gen. Tom Clark as a Communist front. As evidence to this effect, the bulletin of the G-A Council for July, 1945, carried an article by Kostas Karayorghis, described under his by-line as a "leader of EAM," which is the Greek Communist front. The New Masses, a Communist organ, had an article by Karayorghis, and a note describing him as "editor of the Greek Communist paper, Rizospastis." Vlavianos was otherwise shown in association with Communist elements in the United States. He is now in Paris. He is an old friend or associate of Drew Pearson.

In view of the fact that the National Herald never had a correspondent at the White House before or since Madeline Karr's assignment, I made inquiries in New York. The expense did not seem to me to be justified.

When Mr. Marketos took over, the Herald had lost $26,718.82 during the preceding period of nine months. Nevertheless Vlavianos paid Mrs. Kerr $50 a week for meager Washington coverage.

Mrs. Karr went to Athens in April, 1946. The files show that in that month the Herald printed only four of her pieces. There were two stories from Athens and two from Paris in May. In June there was one from Washington from a $50-a-week regular staff correspondent. There were two in July, two in August, none in September, eight in October, seven in November, two in December, two in January, 1947, and none in February or March. Marketos took over in March and discontinued using the Karr copy although he paid Mrs. Karr until July 30.

On that date, B. J. Marketos, publisher, for the National Herald, wrote Mr. Ross at the White House that "as of today, Mrs. Madeline Karr, who heretofore has been attending the White House press conferences in our behalf, will no longer be our Washington correspondent."

The cost of living as a correspondent in Athens and other capitals was roughly $30 a day during Mrs. Karr's assignment to Europe and the cost of transportation would have been about $1,200. But the books of the Herald disclose only one item of expense allowance paid to Madeline Karr. That was for $200.

Frick Wants Suspended Game Rule Returned; Fuchs Sets World Mark

Condensed from AP, UP, INS Wire Reports

President Ford Frick, of the National League, favors a return to the old suspended game rule as a means of preventing unsatisfactory deadlocks such as last Monday's 4-4 nine-inning tie between St. Louis and Brooklyn.

Frick said that nothing could be done about the much-discussed Card-Dodger battle "because it went nine innings and there was no stalling at any time, although there was a time limit on the game before it started."

"I think that a resumption of our old suspended game rule which we put into effect during the war would solve such situations," Frick said.

WORLD'S RECORD — James Fuchs, of Yale, bettered the world shot put record as the United States edged within six points of Scandinavia in the "Little Olympics." Fuchs threw the 16-pound shot 17.49 meters or 58 feet 4 27/64 inches. The listed world record of 57 feet, one inch, was set in Oslo in 1934 by Jack Torrance, of LSU.

FIRST HOMER — Sam Zoldak, Cleveland relief pitcher, waited six years to hit his first major league home run, only to see it wiped off the records by a sweeping rainstorm that cancelled Wednesday's Indian-Yankee game after four innings. . . Attendance in the Southern Association is off roughly five percent compared with the 1948 season.

PURE ATHLETES — Before the 1949-50 college sports season ends, you'll probably hear a lot more on the question of subsidizing athletes. If and when the argument gets hotter than it is now, there are at least 10 schools scattered across five Southeastern states that can sit back and watch the arguments go by. They are members of the Dixie Conference and, after a year of not paying athletes, say strength has been added to belief in "no paid athletes".

TENNIS—Italy's tennis team, winner in the Davis Cup European Zone play, has left for New York and its meeting with the American Zone victors. . . . Australia and Mexico are the two remaining American entries. They begin a three-day match today at Wilmington, Del.

Dinny Pails, of Australia, eliminated Fred Perry, former Wimbledon champion, 4-6, 8-6, 6-1, 5-7, 6-3, to gain the quarter-final round of the Slazenger Professional Tennis Tournament in Scarborough, England.

GOLF—A proposal for the exhibition between Sam Snead, Cary Middlecoff and Bobby Locke met with a turndown from two of the players and an official of the Professional Golfers Association. Snead and Middlecoff said they "weren't interested," and George Schneiter, tournament manager for the PGA, said he had no official notification of the proposal by the Spokane, Wash., Athletic Round Table. The Spokane group had offered to put up $6,500 in prize money, with $3,500 going to the winner.

Bobby Locke, center of a pro golf controversy, was five strokes off the pace in the first 26 holes in Irish Open at Belfast. He fired a 71-75—146. . . . Dick Chapman, of Pinehurst, N. C., is the lone American left in the Canadian Amateur Golf tourney. He reached the semifinal round with a 2-1 conquest of Mike Pilaski, of Winnipeg.

MILLS - LESNEVICH FIGHT—Promoter Jack Solomons has started negotiations for Freddie Mills to defend his world light-heavyweight championship against Gus Lesnevich in October.

ROUNDUP — Dr. Clarence W. (Doc) Spears, famed former Minnesota coach, has joined the Detroit Lions as team physician . . . Sale of Churchill Downs, scene of the Kentucky Derby, to a charitable foundation, has been tagged a "tax dodge" by Republican Representative Mason, Illinois. He said "Uncle Sam would lose about half a million dollars in taxes every year."

In Goodwood, England, Lord Derby's Alycidon romped to his fourth victory this season in the two miles, five furlong Goodwood Cup . . . Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson permitted to become law without his signature a bill creating a commission to study possible licensing of special horse race betting in Illinois . . . Tea Deb, owned by George M. Crump, of Richmond, led from start to finish to win the $20,000 added Pollyanna Stakes for 2-year-old fillies at Arlington Park.

'Monk' Simons Leaves Tulane

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—Claude (Little Monk) Simons is leaving Tulane.

The triple-threat halfback who has served as Green Wave head football coach, athletic director and baseball coach, has accepted a position with a New Orleans department store (D. H. Holmes Company, Ltd.).

Tentative arrangements have been made for his successor at Tulane, but the University said no announcement will be made pending the return of Dr. Rufus Harris, University President, now in Central America.

Hugh Evans, President of the department store firm, said Simons "will be on special assignments, radio, the banquet circuit and things like that."

At the time of his resignation Simons was serving as director of student activities at Tulane.

Highlights of his football career at Tulane include a 40-yard kickoff return on a lateral that beat LSU, 13-12, in 1934 and a similar play that carried him 85 yards to another score against Temple in the 1935 Sugar Bowl game.

Bud Fonts Named Oglethorpe Pro

SAVANNAH—(AP)—Anthony V. (Bud) Fonts has been named professional at the General Oglethorpe Golf Club course, it was announced yesterday by J. B. Temple, Manager of the General Oglethorpe Hotel.

Fonts succeeds Billy Zmistowski.

The new professional, a native of Sausalite, Calif., is 26 years old and only turned professional in January of this year. Since that time, he has assisted Mike Lucas of Greenville, S. C., teaching at the Batesburg, S. C., course, where Lucas was also head man.

Fonts, with Bob White, holds the unofficial course record at the Savannah club with an eight-under-par 64. The official record is held by Bobby Jones, with a 65.

The report from the clubhouse was that he was not seriously hurt.

Pancho Erratic But Victorious

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y.—(AP)—Richard (Pancho) Gonzales, the national champion, was brilliantly erratic yesterday as he led top-ranked favorites into the semi-finals of the Meadow Club Invitational Tennis Tournament.

Dazzling in spots but showing a tendency to let down when ahead, the Los Angeles stylist vanquished Irvin Dorfman, of New York, 6-1, 1-6, 6-4.

The U. S. titleholder, who also is challenge cup defender in this event, was joined in the round of four by Billy Talbert, of New York; Gardnar Mulloy, of Miami, Fla., and Herbert Flam, of Beverly Hills, Cal., who followed him in that order in seedings.

Talbert had a day's work cut out for him as he had to brush aside two foes to advance.

He conquered Grant Golden, of Chicago, in a delayed third-round match, 6-1, 6-4, and then after a rest put skids under Arnold Saul, of Los Angeles, 6-3, 7-5.

Mulloy's slashing net game was too much for Charles Masterson, of Hicksville, N. Y., who went down, 6-3, 6-4. Flam outsteadied the power-stroking Richard Savitt, of East Orange, N. J., 6-1, 6-4.

Kurowski Sent To Houston

HOUSTON, Texas—(AP)—Whitey Kurowski, St. Louis Cardinal third baseman, has been optioned to the Houston club of the Texas League.

Word of the transfer was received here yesterday from Fred Saigh, St. Louis owner of the Cardinals.

Kurowski is to join the Buffs in Oklahoma City today.

He has been on the disabled list all season, following a back injury, but according to Cardinal Manager Eddie Dyer has been hitting better in batting practice the last few days than at any time since the injury.

MRS. A. E. McCANN
She Holds a Czar's Pendant

OWNED BY CZARS

Royal Jewel Bequeathed To Atlantan

Without doubt it is a magnificent piece of jewelry—oval-shaped of bright gold and centered with a huge faultless diamond, from which radiates rows of smaller diamonds, the whole being bordered with pear-shaped pearls.

And encased in the back is a lock of human hair. Whose?

It could be the hair of Peter the Great of Russia, who lived from 1672 to 1725, or it could have belonged to Czarina Alexandrie, or to any of the intervening Russian monarchs or their loves. Mrs. A. E. McCann, owner of this resplendent pendant, doesn't have the faintest idea whose head it once graced, but she does know that the jewelry, given her five years ago by her aunt, Miss Enid Handyfide McCann, has a fascinating history.

It belonged originally to Peter the Great, who passed it on to Alexander III, who, in turn, gave it to his son, Nicholas II, the last Czar of Russia. His wife was Czarina Alexandrie, whose four sons were slain by the Bolsheviks in Siberia.

The pendant was given to Mrs. McCann's great-grandfather, Nichol Handyfide, by Nicholas II, as a token of appreciation for the services he rendered as consul to Russia from England in 1860. The consul passed it on to his daughter, Mrs. Robert Handyfide, who bequeathed it to Jane Brodie Handyfide. The latter left it to her niece and godchild, Enid Handyfide McCann, who later gave it to her Atlanta niece.

Thus it is that Mrs. McCann wears the pendant with pride, both because it is a valuable museum piece, tied up inexorably with the history of Russia, and because it is wondrously beautiful.

Hair Unruly? Summertime Tips Are Given

Is your hair showing an unwillingness to co-operate?

Does it resist all your advances to keep it lustrous, lovely, neat and well groomed?

Don't judge it too harshly. Most of the responsibility for hair that won't respond to ordinary measures—that is stiff and stringy, dried out and parched lies in the lap of Summer.

For all its many kindnesses to you, Summer is anything but gentle on hair. It makes hay (of your hair) while the sun shines, robs it of essential oils and leaves it a dry lustreless mass.

These were some of the things Mrs. Amy Hirsch, special representative of the Pomatex Company, pointed out recently when she dropped by our ofice. In her hand she held the answer to all your Summertime hair problems.

"Pomatex," she explained, "is a non-greasy hair conditioner, that imparts a nice sheen to the hair, prevents it from tangling and will keep it well-groomed and healthy-looking even during constant exposure to the sun, as well as other Summer elements, such as salt water.

"If your hair is curley, it makes it manageable and accentuates the waves," Mrs. Hirsch pointed to her own smoothly waved shock of dark brown hair. She used it for years before she came a representative for the company.

"If your hair is in normal condition," she said, "this product should be rubbed lightly over the surface." Otherwise, if the hair is dry and brittle, Mrs. Hirsch suggests that you massage it into the scalp.

Although Mrs. Hirsch doesn't know the entire formula for Pomatex, she assured us that it contains no alcohol.

It's available at Davison's in Atlanta.

SALLY FORTH Says:

Popular Atlantans Hobnob With Turkish Minister

Mrs. Whitman McGonigal and Mrs. Sam Slicer are just back from Mexico, where they vacationed for three weeks, and so glorious was their stay that they are already planning a return visit.

It has been 10 years since Mrs. McGonigal has been south of the border, and so fabulous has the land become during that time that one would scarcely recognize it as the Mexico of 1938. Mrs. McGonigal, who has traveled the world over, thinks that Mexico City has become more like Paris than any other city on the globe. And, as for Acapulco, she can't find adjectives glowing enough to describe its loveliness. There, she and Mrs. Slicer gazed upon water as blue as the Mediterranean, and hobnobbed with such celebrities as the Minister of Turkey.

In the Aztec capital the popular Atlantans attended two operas at the magnificent Palace of Fine Arts—"The Barber of Seville" and "Mimi." All of the spectators were dressed in full evening attire and wore the most exquisite jewels that Mrs. McGonigal and Mrs. Slicer have ever seen.

One of the most unique phases of their Mexican holiday was a visit to Forty Nine. In this quaint town is located a charming little hotel. There is an adjoining swimming pool for the use of the guests, and each morning 1,000 fresh gardenia blossoms are lowered, by the management, into the water. One of the pastimes at the hotel is trying to count the fragrant flowers, but with swimmers in the pool practically all of the time, it is, to say the least, difficult.

Ditto for Mexico

Other Atlantans who have found the land of bullfights, exotic gardens and historic churches just as wonderful as the travelogue says are Miss Carol Rosenberg and Mrs. Joan Lavinson, who will return today after spending the month of July in Mexico. They spent the first two weeks of their stay at the Hotel Del Prado in Mexico City.

Glass, leather and silver factories, bullfights, quaint night clubs and sight-seeing trips through the surrounding countryside have thrilled them, and so did their visit with Louis Hidalgo, famous wax sculptor.

The twosome spent last week at Acapulco Beach, returning later to Mexico City where they boarded a plane for home.

A Place To Live and Antiques To Furnish It

Martha Mann and her fiance, Mark Pentecost, Jr., are indeed a lucky pair. Not only have they found a place to live—a cozy garage apartment at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Newton on Lullwater Road near Emory where Mark will be in medical school—but their gorgeous array of wedding presents includes many antiques with which to furnish it.

First there is a pair of handsome old gold-leaf mirrors which are the gift of Martha's great-aunt, Mrs. Martha Slover Tobey, and her daughter, Mrs. Samuel A. Knaffl, of Knoxville Tenn.

Then there is a beautiful antique silver wine cooler which was sent tomorrow's bride by her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Stanfield, also of Knoxville.

For "something old" Martha will carry a fragile Brussels lace handkerchief which has been carried by the brides in Mark's family for generations. It originally belonged to his maternal great-grandmother, who was Miss Annie Skellie before she became Mrs. James Monroe Gray. Next it was carried by Mrs. Gray's daughter, Mrs. Charles Hurt, Sr., and then by Mark's mother, Mrs. Pentecost, and his sisters, Mrs. Lloyd Timberlake and Mrs. Rucker Todd, III.

Three-year-old Lloyd Timberlake, Jr., will serve as ring bearer in the wedding tomorrow, and so taken is he with his importance that he won't let anyone even so much as touch the small satin pillow on which he will carry the rings. Lloyd will wear the white suit, with long trousers, if you please, that Julian Harrison, III, wore at the wedding of his aunt, Anne Harrison, last September.

Miss Walden was graduated from Russell High School, where she was a member of the National Honor Society and the Dramatic Club. She attended the Cincinnati Bible Seminary and is now employed by the American Mutual Liability Insurance Company.

Mr. Ragland attended William and Mary College and served in the U. S. Army Air Corps. He is now enrolled at the Cincinnati Bible Seminary.

DISTINGUISHED RECORD

Georgian Represents NEA At World Meet in Geneva

When the World Organization of Teaching Profession met in Geneva, Switzerland, last week, a Georgia woman, Mrs. Sarah Campbell Caldwell, represented the National Education Association, thus being the first class room teacher to be so honored.

Mrs. Caldwell, who is the former Miss Sarah Campbell, daughter of Mrs. Robert W. Campbell and the late Mr. Campbell, of Covington, now lives in Akron, Ohio, having been on leave for the past year from city schools there to serve as President of Class Room Teachers of NEA.

She left the States by TWA airliner from New York, going straight to Paris, and from there to Geneva. Following the meeting she will visit Berne and Zurich, in Switzerland, and Stuttgart, Germany. She plans to leave Aug. 1 for Rome, Italy, for a week, thence on to Athens, Greece, and from there to Cairo, Egypt.

At Cairo she will board another TWA airliner for the trip back to New York, arriving here on Aug. 24.

Mrs. Caldwell has long been an active figure in education circles, with a distinguished record as a teacher, having taught in small town and large city schools for the past 24 years. Preparation for her career included a degree in education at GSCW, and graduate study at Columbia University, Pennsylvania State College, University of Akron, Ohio, and Miami University.

Flavor for Custard

An interesting flavor can be added to plain baked custard by adding a bit of crushed red and white peppermint candy stick to the mixture before baking; serve chilled.

Mild Selling Pushes Stocks Trifle Lower

NEW YORK—(AP)—Another day of sticky wet heat—or maybe it was a mild touch of selling pressure—put the stock market a trifle lower Thursday.

Losses were mainly fractional, a few as much as a point or so. A large number of issues wound up with minor gains or remained at Wednesday's closing levels.

Neither buyers nor sellers had decisive ideas about prices, an attitude of indifference which was reflected in trading activity. Turnover declined to 780,000 shares, lowest in a week, from 1,030,000 Wednesday.

Most of the losses were posted during the morning. The market soon found a bottom and coasted along at a slightly lower level the rest of the session. Several listless efforts at a recovery shaped up but faded away before they really got started.

An excellent earnings and production report issued overnight by General Motors had no apparent effect on the price trend. It was the same reception given U. S. Steel's income statement on Wednesday.

A couple of stocks reflected better-than-expected income reports or dividends, but on the whole another flood of good earnings reports made little impression. Not every company is making money hand over fist, but generally the profit record for the second quarter has created a favorable impression in the financial district.

Action of the London Exchange may have exerted a psychological influence on trading sentiment here, but the connection between the two markets these days is a thin one. Many prices tumbled to the lowest levels in a decade in early London trading before a rally got under way, helped along by rumors the government was supporting the market.

Recent weakness in the London Exchange, and particularly in British government bonds, has at least had the effect of emphasizing Britain's economic condition.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped .1 of one point to 63. A slight gain in the utility section was more than offset by declines in the industrial and railroad groups. A total of 964 individual issues were traded, of which 420 declined and 291 advanced.

The general price level is now just a shade under the crest of a rally which started in mid-June and carried the market to a high since May 19. Wall Streeters are arguing the question whether the indecisive behavior of the market Wednesday and Thursday is merely an interruption in the Summer rally or the end of the advance.

Higher in the curb were Louisiana Land, Lone Star Gas, Crown Drug, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, Cities Service, American Natural Gas, United Aircraft Products, Pennroad and Niagara Hudson Power. Pushed back slightly were American Gas & Electric, Claude Neon and National Bellas Hess. Turnover of 200,000 shares compared with 190,000 Wednesday.

Steel Workers Demand 4th Round Raise

NEW YORK—(AP)—The United Steel Workers of America, claiming that the steel industry was rolling up "staggering" profits, yesterday demanded a fourth round increase of 12½ cents an hour.

Philip Murray, President of the CIO union, made the demand as part of a 30-cents-an-hour package. The steel workers also want, he said, 11.23 cents an hour for pensions and 6.27 cents for social insurance.

Murray said the steel industry was amassing profits of about a billion dollars a year and should grant the union's demand in the national interest.

He led off testimony before the three-man board which the President named to avert an imminent strike by the 900,000 steel workers last July 16.

The board must make its recommendations, which aren't binding on either side, to Mr. Truman by Sept. 1—15 days before the union's new strike deadline. The union has eight days and the 64 steel companies an equal period to present their case.

Murray waxed emphatic in declaring that the steel industry has been "desperately anxious to conceal the economic facts" of the dispute.

"The industry," he said, "is amassing profits at the staggering rate approximating one billion dollars annually, after all taxes. This is a record high never approached before, even in the boom year of 1929."

The gray-haired union head said U. S. Steel spent $76,000,000 for "wear and exhaustion of its facilities" in the first half of 1949.

"But in 1949," he declared, "this same corporation spent $10,000,000 for the wear and exhaustion of its human beings.

"That is a disgraceful and scandalous record for the industry to defend before this board."

Murray spoke scornfully, too, of high pensions paid to steel company executives.

The union says the present basic wage is $1.65 an hour. In the previous rounds of postwar wage increases, the union got 18½ cents an hour in 1946, 15 cents in 1947 and 13 cents in 1948.

Under the newly-proposed pension plan each worker would get $125 a month after retirement at the age of 65.

The union's demands also would provide group life insurance equivalent to a year's pay; a $1,210 death benefit policy; $31.50 a week in sick or accident benefits; and hospitalization for workers and their families.

Recession 'Orderly,' Reserve Bank Reports

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—Recession from postwar business peaks has been "orderly and for the most part beneficial," the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia reported yesterday in a midyear analysis of the state of the nation's business.

Summing up, the Bank said the drop in employment and prices may not present a "pretty" picture but that these declines are necessary corrections of distortions created by World War II and the postwar period.

Two of the key distortions deal with dollars and production. Money held by individuals and business now totals more than two and one-half times the amount at the end of 1939. But production is less than double what it was before the war.

Another maladjustment that had to be corrected was the backlog demand for durable goods—automobiles, radios, etc. The rapid switch-over from purchase of nondurables during the war to the durable goods which flooded the market after the war created another distortion, the Bank reported.

The Bank noted declines in production during the first half of 1949 with resulting decreases in employment.

But unemployment "has not yet reached what was regarded as the danger point in many previous discussions," the Federal Reserve Bank said.

June was the first month in which the total of all employed persons dipped significantly below that of the previous year. Until June, the 1,700,000 increase in the number of jobless over the previous year was just about matched by a similar increase in the civilian labor force. Employment rose in June on farms, in government and service lines, the Bank said.

The report admitted some communities have been hard hit by unemployment but added: "Still, 60,000,000 people are at work and the general situation does not approach a crisis."

It is no surprise, the Bank said, that the recent declines in employment, production and income have taken the edge off consumer spending.

"But insofar as we can tell," the report continued, "people's savings habits of last year are continuing into 1949."

The savings weren't all dollars in the banks, but rather purchases of homes and business equipment over and above the increase in mortgage and other indebtedness, the bank said.

During the first quarter of this year, the bank reported, people were saving at the rather phenomenal rate of $21,000,000,000 a year—slightly better than 10 percent of the disposable personal income."

Prices have been in general retreat since August of 1948, but the price of labor, one of the least quoted but one of the most important of prices, has changed very little during the first half of 1949, the bank said.

The bank noted that "though it is often claimed that government is undermining business confidence, there is actually a large confidence in government on the part of the general public, including many businessmen."

This leads to the widely held view that government will not permit unemployment to reach serious proportions, the bank said.

Labor unions will be influential in shaping future events and wholesale wage cutting, such as was practiced in the early '20s and '30s, appear to be a thing of the past, the report predicted.

N. Y. Securities Analysts Praise South's Growth

NEW YORK—(AP)—A group of New York securities analysts praised the Southeast and "Deep South" yesterday as the country's fastest-growing industrial region.

The analysts, research experts for some of the World's largest brokerage and investment banking firms, returned this week from a seven-day, 1,500-mile inspection trip of the properties of subsidiaries of the Southern Company.

They have made a thorough study of the Southern Company's four operating subsidiaries—Georgia Power Company, Alabama Power Company, Gulf Power Company and Mississippi Power Company—and reported their findings yesterday at a meeting attended by officials of the parent and controlled companies.

They submitted extremely optimistic reports on the Utility Companies' current operations and future prospects. This optimism was based in large part on their study of the region's natural resources, its people and its determination to pull out of a one-sided agricultural economy and establish a balanced industrial-agricultural economy.

The analysts said important factors in the South's economic progress included a program of crop diversification and rotation, hard-hitting efforts to attract diversified industries to the area, and the cooperation of communities and public officials with established companies.

One of the New Yorkers described the Southeast as a "prosperous looking area—not rich, but soundly prosperous."

"We saw no discouragingly poverty stricken areas on our tour," he said. "I was especially impressed with the good political relationships. The state and municipal officials recognize the importance of the operating companies in their areas from the point of view of continued developments. The region has a happy atmosphere for our capital to go to work in."

These are the comments of some of the analysts on their views of the South's economy:

P. D. Crockkett, Keystone Custodian Fund—"In every city and town we met young, enthusiastic representatives of the Chamber of Commerce. All were on the lookout for opportunities to bring new industries into their community and to build up their community."

W. W. Amos, The First Boston Corporation—"Should there be a depression, the greater diversification between agriculture and industry, together with the lower production costs of the South, should enable that area to withstand any decline in general business activity better than many other parts of the country."

A. A. Graham, Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane—"The South appears to be making definite progress toward a balanced and sound economy and has a good chance of showing better percentage growth than other areas of the country in the future."

Harry W. Witt, Kidder, Peabody & Company—"There seems to be sound basis for believing that this rapid growth should continue for some years to come."

Pau S. Donnan, Lehman Corporation—"I returned to New York with a most optimistic feeling concerning the Southern Company system and the territory it serves."

Lloyd C. Mathers, Smith, Barney & Company—"One cannot help being impressed by what is going on in the area. The thing is taking fire and the day is probably not far distant when the Southeast will no longer be considered lagging in development. The trend would seem to have been soundly established, and with the almost limitless natural resources, the climate, and a good supply of native-born labor, there is no reason to believe that the trend will soon be interrupted."

Science Group Adopts Official Publication

The Southern Association of Science and Industry, a regional organization of scientists, educators, industrialists, and professional men, has adopted as its official publication the new Journal of Southern Research, a scientific journal whic hcovers the activities of more than 200 research laboratories now located in the South.

This new journal, established several months ago, is edited by H. McKinley Conway, Jr., native of Alabama and a graduate of Georgia Tech. Its board of Technical advisors is:

Dean O. V. Adams, Texas Technological College; Dr. Luis H. Bartlett, Director, Engineering Experiment Station, Louisiana State University; Dr. J. W. Beams, Chairman, School of Physics, University of Virginia; and Dr. J. H. Coulliette.

The Southern Association of Science and Industry, Inc., is located at 5009 Peachtree Rd., Atlanta.

Atlanta Firm Leads Nation In Range Sales

Brown Distributing Company, of Atlanta, was the top Electromaster range distributor in the United States in the Spring of this year, the Electromaster Division of Philco Corporation announced yesterday.

J. C. Brown, President of the concern which distributes Philco products in Middle and North Georgia, received an engraved sterling silver loving cup in ceremonies at the annual meeting of Philco distributors at New York.

Brown has been distributor for the ranges only since March but has risen to national leadership in that time, according to Vern Kilby, of Atlanta, Southern District representative for Electromaster.

As a special tribute to Brown at the convention, a huge electric "spectacular" sign at Times Square flashed his name in lights during the convention. The sign was built by former Atlantan Douglas Leigh, kingpin of outdoor animated electric sign advertisers.

The car, with a 112-horsepower "Thunderhead" engine, is the same as a Kaiser de luxe four-door sedan except that it has the foldaway seat and floor-to-roof rear opening. It is being sent out to dealers over the country, including Atlanta.

Soil Building Is Major Goal For Next Year

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A shift of millions of acres of land from soil-depleting crops to soil-building grasses, legumes and pastures is the major goal of a $285,000,000 Agriculture Department conservation program for 1950.

The Department gave this outline of the program yesterday, in a statement emphasizing need for rebuilding war-worked soils.

More grass and pastures, it said, would support a larger livestock population, and hence consumer supplies of meats and dairy products would be larger.

The program calls for smaller acreages of such crops as wheat, cotton, field grains, flaxseed, soya beans and peanuts. Surpluses are accumulating in the case of all these.

Various soil and water conservation practices are recommended for individual farms. The Department aids co-operating farmers in carrying out these practices.

Programs of this nature have been in effect each year since the mid-'30s, although they were minimized during the war. Government aid is in the form of materials such as lime, fertilizers and seed; services such as use of power machinery for moving dirt, and cash reimbursements for conservation practices.

The Department said the Government aid will average less than half of the total out-of-pocket cost of the practices to farmers.

In no case will an individual farmer get more than $2,500 in materials, services and payments. This limit is set by law.

A list of recommended practices will be submitted to State and county agencies. The latter will select those which need local emphasis. Farmers in turn will be permitted to adopt measures which will help most in saving their soil.

Botany Mills Earnings Drop

PASSAIC, N. J.—(AP)—The Botany Mills, Inc., reported yesterday that its earnings for the first six months of 1949 were less than one-quarter of earnings for the same period last year.

Col. Charles H. Johnson, President of the Mills, said the net, after taxes, was $404,021 and that in 1948 it was $1,780,431.

He said the decline reflects the lowered prices at which Botany is now selling "to maintain maximum production and distribution."

He predicted further price cuts for the Fall.

DuPont's Income Up $24,195,368

WILMINGTON, Del.—(AP)—E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Company reported a net income gain of $24,195,368 during six months ending June 30 compared to the first six months of 1948.

Sales for the period were up $41,276,781, the Company said.

Du Pont's net income for the first six months of 1949 amounted to $86,806,495. After dividends of $5,549,913 were taken the income was equal to $1.82 a common share. This compares to net income of $62,611,127 or $1.28 a common share. The Company's common stock was split four for one effective June 15, 1949, with a $5 par value.

Burlington Mills Off 9 Millions

NEW YORK—(AP)—Burlington Mills Corporation yesterday reported net earnings for the nine months ended July 2 dropped about $9,000,000 below the comparative figure last year.

The company reported net profit of $11,929,000, equal to $2.80 a share, for the nine months just ended, compared with $21,108,000, or $5.81 a share, for the correponding period of the previous year.

Cotton Grading Warning Issued

DALLAS—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Brannan told the Nation's cotton growers yesterday they face a two-horned dilemma: 1. Cotton is accumulating again in warehouses, as it did before the war; 2. Export markets which could drain off the stored cotton are threatened.

The department chief addressed the Tenth Annual Cotton Research Congress. The growers listened soberly as Brannan ticked off the industry's problems and suggested a solution.

A "sound support-price" program to maintain abundant production and consumption must be the mainstay of the solution, Brannan said. He added this need not be his own Brannan Plan, which Congress has not looked upon favorably.

Brannan said the industry can help itself by cutting production costs through mechanization, and by increasing domestic consumption by finding new uses for cotton.

Murray Calls Steel 'Bigs' 'Racketeers'

NEW YORK—(AP)—Philip Murray, of the CIO steelworkers, yesterday presented to the Presidential fact-finders in the steel industry dispute a demand for a 30 cents an hour apckage.

The demand includes a 12½ cents an hour fourth-round wage boost.

Murray termed steel industry leaders "the most sanctimonious bunch of professional racketeers in this country."

This brought a sharp protest from Company spokesmen present. They demanded that the remark be stricken from the record.

Murray replied:

"All right, then, I'd like to substitute for the language I used and make it Prevaricators and Provocateurs."

Prof Carroll R. Daugherty, chairman of the Presidential board, ordered both comments stricken from the record.

"Name-calling is not to be expected again before this Board," Daugherty said.

Judge Flynt, Ex-Legislator, Dies at Griffin

GRIFFIN — (AP) — Judge John James Flynt, 76, one of Georgia's leading legal and political figures for many years, died at his home here yesterday.

Judge Flynt was active until 1940 when ill health forced him to retire. Prior to his retirement he served twelve terms in the General Assembly, seven of them in the House and five in the Senate. He was President of the Senate in 1908. He served as chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee from 1916 until 1921. He was a delegate to six consecutive Democratic National conventions. He cast his vote at the first for Woodrow Wilson and for Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1932 as his last.

He was a former Judge of Griffin City Court and a former chairman of the Griffin Board of Education. While in the Legislature he was active in his support of the Georgia Experiment Station located here and the administration building on the station bears his name. The athletic field at Spalding High School is named Flynt Field in his honor.

In addition to practicing law, he was a large landowner and operated several farms.

Funeral services will be conducted this afternoon at 4 p. m. at the First Methodist Church here.

Survivors include his son, Jack Flynt, who is Solicitor General of Griffin Circuit Superior Court, and a former member of the Legislature himself; a foster daughter, Mrs. H. R. Buxton, of Sardis, Ga., and five grandchildren.

Mystery-Packed Bill Scheduled Tonight

By RITA VAN PELT

Mystery rides the WCON airlanes by various modes of transportation tonight—horseback, afoot, aboard a train—just anyway to get to your radio and frighten you out of your wits.

The Lone Ranger follows the tom-tom strains of the "Devil Dance" to an Indian village on the trail of a mystery this p. m. at 7:30. The masked man, riding his great horse, "Silver," and accompanied by Pal Tonto, arrives just in time to prevent a human sacrifice.

The Fat Man, thinking to grab a bit of relaxation, grabs a train headed for Pebble Beach at 8 p. m. Within a matter of minutes he meets a woman with a desire to commit mayhem on her husband, a lad with a skittish sense of fidelity.

The Sheriff, at 9:30 p. m., brings us the story of a coterie of grasping relatives which strolls (afoot) into the birthday party of a long-demised aunt. The homicidal intent of the assembled kinfolk is brought to light by the timely intervention of Sheriff Mark Chase.

St. Louis Summer

Walter Cassel, baritone, and Marion Bell, soprano, will guest-star on the WAGA-CBS Summer in St. Louis broadcast tonight at 8. The twosome, both widely known in opera, concert and radio circles, will present a program of enduring songs from musical stage hits.

Meet the Press

Sen. Glen H. Taylor, former Vice Presidential running mate for Henry A. Wallace on the Progressive Party ticket, will be interviewed on the WGST-MBS Meet the Press air conference tonight at 10.

Alan Ladd in 'Saigon'

Alan Ladd will have the starring role in "Saigon" on Screen Directors' Playhouse over WSB-NBC tonight at 9. This is the story of three Air Force veterans, one of whom is slated to die of a war injury. Knowing his days are numbered, the other two plan a last "grand spree" in China. Romance, mystery and fireworks follow.

Break the Bank

Bert Simonton, of Santa Monica, Calif., and his 17-year-old son, selected as this week's Wish Bowl contestants on WCON-ABC's Break the Bank program, will be reaching for a $2,650 jackpot tonight at 9.

Many Small Children Find Short Prayer Difficult

By GLADYS BEVANS

Many mothers start their children early in the habit of praying. However, children vary in their ability to memorize prayers, word for word. When this happens, one or two things may be tried.

Of course, night is a receptive time with children. But also, all active children are tired at bedtime; so you might start talking about praying and teaching a simple prayer of just two lines during the day. Something like this one:

Jesus, Gentle Shepherd, hear me;
Bless your little lamb tonight.

Or this:

Now I lay me down to rest,
Angels guard my little nest;
Like the wee birds in the tree,
Heavenly Father, care for me.

But occasionally a child—a very bright one, too—will not seem to recall the wording of even such a short prayer. So here is another suggestion: One mother I know whose little girl of 4 is unusually clever, had to give up any attempt to get her to memorize any evening prayer. So she got a collection of prayers and each night, after her little girl was bathed and pajamaed and had had her story, she would read to her several of the prayers, as if she were reading a poem or story. Then her small daughter would listen and afterwards say, "God bless Mommie and Daddy," and so on.

Many mothers tell me that they have refrained from teaching their small children to pray because they do not know any lovely and suitable ones. Here are two from my own small collection:

The sun has set, and the stars grow bright,
And over the fields fast falls the night,
Like a fairy wrapped in a mist of dew,
With God's gift of sleep for me and you.

• • •

God sends us night, and He sends us day, too;
He is always thinking of me and you;
Wherever we are in the world so wide,
Though we cannot see Him, He's by our side.

• • •

For mother love and father care,
For grandma and friends everywhere
(or for brothers dear and sister fair),
For love at home and care each day,
For guidance as we go our way,
Father in Heaven, we thank Thee.

• • •

Last year a veritable treasure of prayers for children came to my desk in the form of what I might call a booklet—but only because it is paper-covered and simple in format. The book is called: Prayers I Love (price 50c), arranged by Dixie Willson, who wrote many of the prayers. The book is published by Consolidated Book Publishers, 153 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago 1, Illinois.

A ONE NO TRUMP REBID BY OPENER IS NOT A CONFESSION OF WEAKNESS

The South hand was shown yesterday, with the query as to your second bid, when North responded to the opening diamond bid with a call of one no trump. I should like very much to have at my disposal the services of a professional poll taker, for the purpose of determining how many of my readers bid two no trump, for I have observed a tendency on the part of a great many better-than-average players to jump in no trump when only slight excess values are held.

This bidding situation occurs more frequently, I believe, than any at the bridge table, yet surprisingly enough, great numbers of contract players do not seem to be able to cope with it adequately. There is a general misconception that when the opening bidder rebids one no trump, he, is thereby making a "denial." A denial of what? He surely won't deny that he has an opening bid, because every one at the table heard him open the auction. If we must employ the word "denial," which is a much-abused term, the rebid of one trump denies that the opening bidder has a powerhouse. That's all it denies. It couldn't mean that he has a poor hand, else he would not have opened the bidding. Such bid means to say: "Partner, if you have an indifferent one-over-one take-out we cannot go game and might as well play it at one no trump. If you have a fairly good take-out, and choose to bid again, you are at perfect liberty to do so."

How much then must the opener have before he can safely jump on the second round? A good practical guide is this: Subtract your opening bid and if you have about a trick and a half left over, you are justified in jumping. Sometimes you may jump with a little less than a trick and a half in excess, if you have a mild fit and thus promoted some of your honor strength; stated in terms of point count, opener's hand should measure 19 or 20 points to justify a jump rebid to two no trump.

In today's hand, South held a four-card suit and therefore required three honor tricks to open the bidding. This left him with a surplus of only one trick which is a half a trick short of the requirement for a jump. If North could scare up a raise over one no trump South could safely go to game.

In the play East must make a thoughtful play to keep declarer from making over-tricks. When South leads a small spade to dummy's jack East must permit dummy to hold the trick. This will prevent declarer from bringing in the spade suit.

Your Mind's Mirror

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Can hate be "the tie that binds"?

Answer: Yes. It can hold people together who believe they would do anything to get away from each other. The type of neurotic whose life is unconsciously centered in the need to avenge some wrong suffered in childhood, having found a partner who embodies — and repeats — the grievance, may be as unable to divorce or leave that partner as a normal person would be to retire from a contest which he still had hopes of winning. A man who could never silence a scolding mother may be tied to a wife he hates by the fact that she nags him.

Answer: Yes. There are at least two very different ones. One is called "conduction deafness," and does nothing but decrease the loudness of sounds, while the other is "perception deafness," which hampers ability to interpret the meaning of the sounds heard. According to Dr. Goran de Mare, of Sweden, deafness of the second type distorts the pitch and relative intensity of sounds, thus turning human speech to a meaningless jumble, and making it harder to distinguish it from other noises. Hearing aids are less effective with perception deafness.

Is facing reality a virtue?

Answer: Yes, in the original meaning of the word. For "virtue" derives from the Latin word for a man ("vir") and first stood for manly strength and courage. It takes a great deal of courage to face facts, particularly when they are unpleasant, even though once we have faced them, they are likely to turn out to be less frightening than we expected. But facing reality is not a virtue in the sense of being something which it is our duty to do, or a form of self-denial, and the motive which should prompt it is the instinct of self-preservation.

NEW PRESURGERY CLEANSING AGENT USED

Doctors Here Discard 'Rub and Scrub' For Time and Grime-Cutting Formula

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

Atlanta doctors have discarded the old "rub and scrub" method of washing up before operations!

They have cut their "washing time" before an appendectomy—or other surgery—from about 10 minutes to less than four minutes flat.

By switching from soaps previously used to a new formula, they can now get their hands and arms andtiseptically clean without irritating the skin.

Trade name for the new cleansing agent used in most hospitals here is pHisoderm.

"It's a big improvement," attest physicians at Grady Hospital, where the new cleanser has been adopted.

One surgeon explained that pHisoderm—which looks and smells like creamy hand lotion—contains a detergent known as "G-11." He said G-11 is "similar to a wetting agent and permits water to get close to the skin."

The new chemical formula is also "more antiseptic" than old soaps, the physician said. Since a brush is not necessary in its application, there is no danger of "skin burn."

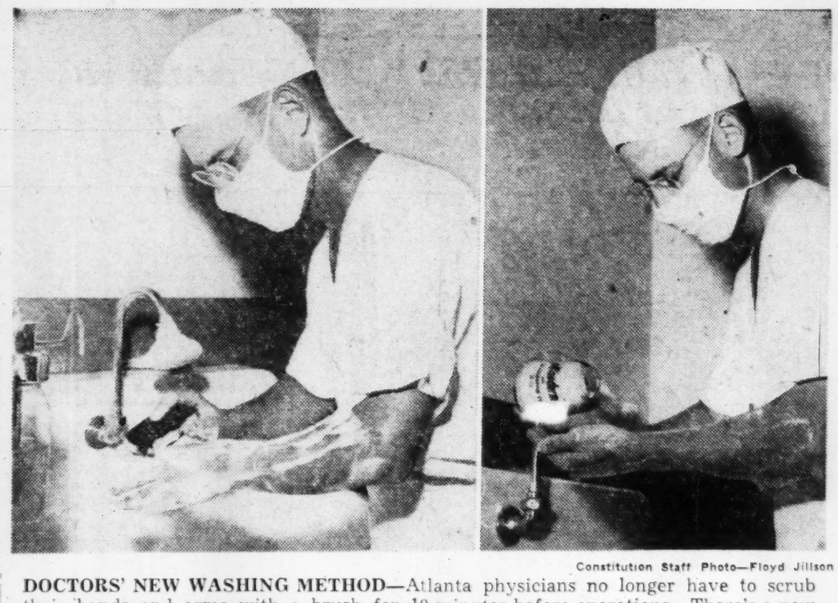

Exact time required to cleanse with the new agent depends on the frequency of its use by the doctor.

Instructions posted regarding "Surgical Prep" at Grady suggest those who prepare for operations at intervals of more than three days wash with the cleansing agent two minutes. Those who wash daily require only one minute. And those who use the formula "routinely and exclusively" need use only "nine strokes to the skin and 15 to the nails."

"It leaves the skin so clean and soft," said one doctor, "that some of us are buying it for home use!"

Dog Scared to Death

CHICOPEE, Mass. — (UP) — Fright was blamed by a veterinarian for the death of a dog owned by I. H. Anderson. The dog was stricken after being frightened by fireworks and died a few hours later.

DOCTORS' NEW WASHING METHOD—Atlanta physicians no longer have to scrub their hands and arms with a brush for 10 minutes before operations. There's a new cleansing agent which does the same job in three or four minutes. At left, a Grady Hospital staff doctor uses the old arduous brush method. At right, the same surgeon pours a special chemical formula on his hands and arms, rubs them—and, they're clean!

BOWS OUT AS FISCAL WIZARD

City Compt. West Ends 45-Year Career Today

The man who has done most to keep Atlanta's financial operations sound for more than a quarter of a century, City Compt. B. Graham West, will bow out of office when the City Hall closes at 5 p. m. today.

Seventy-five-year-old West will retire after serving 45 years with the City, 31 of which he was Comptroller. West has seen wars, depressions, inflations and wars again during his long service and he has always met demands for additional outlays with one simple question: "Where is the money coming from?" This policy is largely responsible for Atlanta's enviable national credit rating.

When political pressure has been applied at times to get extra consideration for any project, whether worthy or not, West has squared off if the City's financial condition failed to justify the expenditure.

Once when budget makers insisted on increasing anticipations beyond a figure West regarded as "safe," he told members of the budget commission he would not sign the budget if the increases were made. After considerable argument, budget commissioners one by one joined West until a majority agreed any upward anticipation of receipts would be "dangerous."

No member of Council and no department head who has served since West became Comptroller in 1918 has failed to respect his views concerning the City's fiscal operations. Bond buyers and other financial organizations with whom the City has dealt over the years learned long ago to accept his statements at face value.

Many times West's stands have not been immediately popular but over the years his judgment has been justified. He is regarded as one of the best City fiscal officials in the country.

Heat Exhaustion Calls For Blankets, Hot Water

Keep those blankets and hot-water bottles handy.

You may need them in a hurry if a member of your family collapses from heat prostration.

Think we're kidding? Not a bit of it. Atlanta physicians yesterday issued a few timely tips for victims of Georgia's currently scorching weather—and blankets, hot water bottles, and scalding tea topped a list of home first-aid measures.

There's a big difference between sunstroke and heat prostration. First aid while waiting for the doctor is different in each case, physicians explained.

Sunstroke, according to the U. S. Public Health Service, is caused by too long exposure to the hot sun. The victim's temperature rises, sometimes to 110 degrees or higher, and he usually loses consciousness.

Heat prostration, or heat exhaustion, is caused by prolonged heat and humidity. The victim usually remains conscious, but he's weak and dizzy. His temperature falls instead of rising; he feels cold and clammy—and that's where those hot water bottles come in.

When a person collapses in hot weather, health experts advise that you: (1) call a doctor at once; (2) move the victim into the shade and loosen any tight clothing; (3) feel his skin.

If the victim's skin feels cold and clammy, keep his head low. No matter how hot the day, cover his body with blankets and put hot water bottles around him. Massage his arms and legs. If he is conscious, give him hot tea or coffee.

But—if the victim's skin feels hot, he probably has sunstroke or heartstroke—the latter due to prolonged oppressive heat, often indoors.

"Don't give first aid until you are sure," doctors warn. The collapse may have been due to something very different, such as apoplexy or heart failure.

But if the victim's temperature is 105 or higher, give first aid for sunstroke. Put a pillow under his head, wet his clothes with cold water, cover him with cold wet sheets, or put ice packs around his head, neck and body. Fan him and rub his arms and legs to keep the blood circulating. If possible, get a cold bath ready while the doctor is on the way.

"If you don't have a thermometer," experts warn, "don't give first aid. Wait for the doctor!"

Ruling Hits Airport Plan

Atlanta yesterday prepared to protest a new Civil Aeronautics Administration ruling which may require the City to purchase additional land at the Municipal Airport for installation of high intensity approach lights.

The approach lighting system is projected as a part of the $5,500,000 expansion program now under way at the field, but the former policy was to permit the Federal Government to acquire needed land for installing the lights by lease or purchase. The new ruling precludes CAA purchase of the properties, Herbert G. Spencer, District Airport Engineer of CAA, notified the City yesterday.

Mayor Hartsfield and Jack Gray, Airport Manager, have decided to appeal the new ruling. Gray pointed out the City had committed the full $3,000,000 in bonds it authorized for the Airport expansion and no additional funds were available. This was done, he said, on the assumption CAA would handle the approach-light problem.

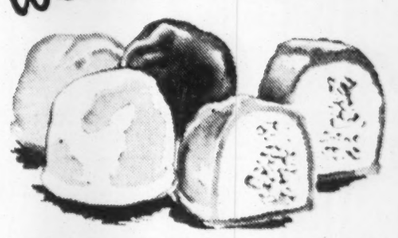

"If this stands, it will mean that the rules have been changed in the middle of the game and I do not believe CAA will insist on doing that," Gray said. "When we laid out our program three years ago and voted bonds, we had every reason to believe CAA would carry out its agreement. We still believe it will."

Nation's Housewives Bid Against Uncle Sam for Groceries

By DORIS LOCKERMAN
Constitution Associate Editor

It is a kind of grim race, with barkers shouting the results through a loudspeaker. Food is going up! No, food is coming down! Eggs are rising! Meat is falling back! Cheese is behind . . . but moving ahead! Keep your eye on cheese! Chicken is pounding forward! Poor old chicken! Remember last month when it rounded the bend at 24 cents a pound?

And, as usual, win or lose, the ones holding the bags are the homemakers who try to feed families with tightened budgets and always burgeoning appetites.

Food dealers say sincerely that prices are down.

Consumers (that's you and me) scream out in dismay that they are not down.

Certainly they are not down to the extent other commodities have dropped, or enough to follow the recession or slide trend of thinking.

A mother from College Park telephoned yesterday. Then another, and finally a third. It must have been some small movement to try to stir up thinking of other grocery buyers.

Food Prices Are Hard To Estimate

"Prices," cried the first one, "are mounting! I know it. They say they have only gone up 1 percent . . . but I see the rise in my food bill. I try to feed four children and a husband on a moderate allowance, and it's getting harder every day. Why eggs alone have jumped six cents a dozen lately."

Exact food prices are the hardest things in the world to pin down because they vary with grocers and their policies, with quality and with quantity purchased and offered for retail sale.

Actually, though, chickens have gone up since last month, when the market was glutted with overproduction in nearby chicken plants. Now heavy fowls, old hens and roosters have dropped to the same price as fryers and broilers. It is a matter of supply.

Butter is "close to the Government support level" and there are rumors that the Government is going to enter the market and buck up the price a little.

Cheese is down a great deal since last year, as much as 20 cents a pound, but that will be changed too, soon, when the government goes in to buy it up and "support" the price.

Eggs are higher because there is a shortage of fresh eggs. This is explained by the fact that packers did not store eggs immediately after Easter when the peak price dropped. Don't ask me why. Eggs are higher.

Meat, which has spiraled up a few cents a pound in the last several weeks, is actually lower than it was last year at the same time. Wholesalers and grocery chains keep their checks on prices from year to year, as well as from day to day. They say the market basket should be lighter to bear this year, considering everything.

The important phrase in all this information is "government support." In the face of bumper crops, which should normally bring prices down to consumers, the Government is pledged to step in and put a floor under prices of edibles, assuring that they shall not drop to normal competitive prices.

Many people object to buying against their government, competing with it for food. It is like buying against themselves, they say. They provide the tax money for the Government to go into the food market and buy so much it keeps the price up to them, too. They are paying twice.

This is an old sore spot with thoughtful consumers. The big agricultural blocs have long ago forced Congress to protect farmers and producers against bankruptcy and oversupply by floors under prices.

But they screamed at Government price ceilings. Floors benefit the producers; ceilings benefit the consumers . . . at least this is the theory in terms of economy.

Homemakers Muff an Opportunity

Homemakers may have overlooked an opportunity last week in Washington.

A plan, proposed by Secretary of Agriculture Brannan, died in the halls of lawmaking because consumers and little farmers did nothing about reinforcing it.

In a complex scheme of "parity" prices, and involved subsidies to growers of staple products, the Brannan Plan seemed reasonable and simple.

It proposed that the Government cease buying in the food market, let prices drop to their natural economic level and then pay direct money to farmers who suffered any penalty of overproduction and low prices. It would cost the taxpayers money . . . but it wouldn't cost them tax money AND high food bills at the same time. It would remove the double-taxation item.

People who believed in the Brannan Plan (and they were very quiet about it, it appears) say it would have prevented excess production of certain foodstuffs and encouraged production of other items.

At any rate, it was something hopeful to consider and the opportunity is gone for the moment. There is nothing to keep it from being reintroduced if enough public sentiment is developed in its favor.

The Brannan Plan for food production might very well be a subject for study on the agenda of clubs this Fall, and it could easily be an item for cogitation by Mrs. Housewife when she stands in line to have her groceries checked. That broad-shouldered man with the many baskets, ahead of her, is the United States Government. That roll of money in his hand is hers.

Don't throw away celery leaves, say food experts. Cut them fine with scissors and mix with grated cheese and mayonnaise for a sandwich spread. They are also good mixed in with cream cheese, which has been softened with a little milk flavored with scraped onion.

LIKE SANDWICHES?

Luncheon Meats Good Fillings

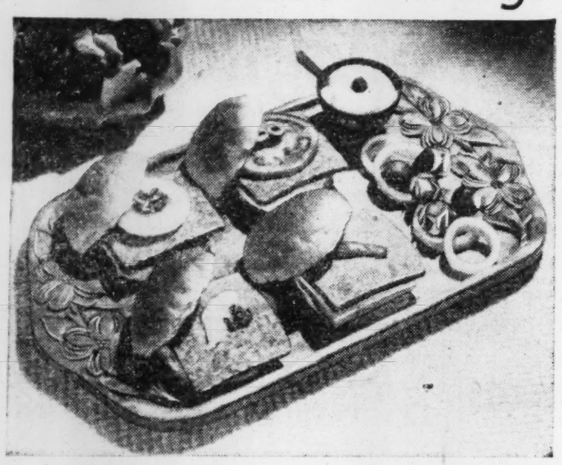

By SALLY SAVER

Summer time, when informality reigns supreme, is the time of the "sandwich and salad" meal. It is the great American dish as well as a great time saving menu, too. But here's a tip: A housekeeper can easily add zest to sandwiches and perk them up to party pertness without destroying either the ease of preparation or the economy.

This sandwich-with-a-salad combination hits the highest peak of its popularity as a grand satisfying meal, whether the meal is for two, four or more.

For variety in meat filled sandwiches there are four kinds of luncheon meats to use—beef, lamb, veal and pork. Make sandwiches of each kind and then invite the guests to add more variety to their flavor by garnishing the sandwiches with piccalilli, pickles, prepared mustard, mayonnaise, tomatoes, stuffed olives, chopped ripe olives, onion rings, radishes, cheese slices and chili sauces.

Luncheon meats of beef, lamb, veal or pork may be used sliced or pressed through a medium shredder, shaped into burgers and browned in butter. Folks with a flare for unusual epicurean combinations will be very happy mixing their own garnishes to suit their particular tastes. Following are some interesting recipes:

Luncheon Meats Make Good Sandwich Spreads

MIX 'N' MATCH SANDWICHES

Put all the sandwich "lids" in a bread tray and place the lower part of the sandwich as open-faced ones on a service tray or platter. Put the condiments down the center or along either edge. The meat may be cut into slices, crossways, longwise or made into hotdogs by slicing the loaf in half and then each half into quarters. To add appeal to the meat, garnish with pickle slices, radish slices, onion rings, tomato slices, piccalilli or sliced cheese.

ENVELOPE SANDWICH

Cut the crust from a loaf of unsliced bread. Cut a slice the full length of the loaf. Spread with butter and mayonnaise too, if you like. Cut one end of this long slice to a point. Spread generously with meat sandwich spread and then using a knife to help make the fold, fold ⅓ of the sandwich over on the middle third. Next fold the pointed end over the top in envelope style. Fasten with a food pick. Place on broiler and toast to golden brown under a hot broiler flame. Remove from stove and garnish with ½ stuffed olive.

SANDWICH SPREAD

1 can Veal, grated
¼ cup green pepper, chopped
¼ cup carrot, shredded
½ cup chopped onion
1 stalk celery (¼ cup)
1 tablespoon parsley, chopped
1 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce
3 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
½ cup dry bread crumbs
¼ teaspoon pepper—no salt
Soup cream to spreading consistency

Saute the green pepper, carrot, onion and celery in 1 tablespoon butter until soft. Add remaining ingredients. Mix and spread in sandwich.

OPEN BROILED SANDWICH

1 can (Beef, Lamb, Veal or Pork)
⅔ cup sour cream
¼ teaspoon pepper—no salt
2 tablespoon parsley
2 tablespoon finely chopped onion, optional
8 slices bread or bun halves

Shred meat into mixing bowl. Blend in other indredients. Spread generously on bread. Place under moderate broiler and heat for 3 to 5 minutes or until brown. Serve immediately.

CLUB SANDWICH (For One)

3 slices of bread, toasted
1 slice of (Beef, Lamb, Veal or Pork)
1 or 2 slices of bacon, fried
2 sliced of tomato
Chopped onion, if desired
Lettuce

Butter hot toast and put together as a triple-deck sandwich. Put bacon and tomato in one layer and the MOR and lettuce in the other. Slice into four triangles. Serve with olives.

Here Is Tantalizing Taste Appeal

You'll find this platter will strike a high note in appetite appeal with your family and friends—yet it is a thrifty main dish because it makes the most of three of the season's tastiest foods—Wilson's Certified Frankfurters, fresh-garden sweet corn and sliced vine-ripened tomatoes. It's an All-American team-up that is delightful summertime eating.

During this warm weather we are quite naturally interested in finding foods that may be prepared quickly and easily: Main course platters that appeal at once to the flourishing play-time appetites of children and the lagging hot-weather appetites of adults. Corn filled frankfurts will do just that! You just can't go wrong this new way with an old favorite.

Of course, corn is not the only good filling for frankfurts, but it is timely. There's a great variety of vegetable slaws including carrot and cabbage that are perfect in cold franks (franks are already cooked, you know). There's fruit filling like pineapple. There's bread stuffing and the reliable favorite of cheese and pickle. For tonight let's make it:

1 Corn from cob or can

2 Plus egg and seasonings

3 Bakes tastily in Franks

CORN FILLED FRANKFURTS

Cut half-way through one side:
1 lb. Wilson's Certified Frankfurters
Inside you'll find the leanest pork and beef delicately blended with spices to enhance their rich natural flavor. My, they are good! Meanwhile blend:
1 cup cooked fresh-cut corn from the cob (2 ears), canned whole kernel or frozen
1 slightly beaten egg
1 teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt and
¼ teaspoon pepper
Heap three or more teaspoonfuls of the mixture into each split-open frank. Dot with:
2 tablespoons Clear Brook Butter or Certified Margarine
Place in a shallow baking pan. Add water to a depth of ½ inch and bake in a 350° F. oven for 15 to 20 minutes or broil until appetizingly browned.

TODAY'S FOOD TIP

If cantaloupe is a favorite at your house, you'd better hurry to the Farmers' Market, for the supply is thinning out on these Georgia-grown products. Still in quantity, however, are peaches, watermelons, honeydew melons, beans, okra, tomatoes, peppers and squash.

2 SMALL CANS

Sardines Plus Rice, Tomatoes Make Tasty Dish

Two small cans of sardines will go a long way when combined with rice and tomato sauce. Flake the sardines, mix them with cooked rice and bake with a tomato sauce. Or add the fish to the cooked rice and use the spicy tomato sauce as a topping to the rice mixture.

SARDINE CASSEROLE
(Six servings)

1 cup uncooked rice
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 large onion, chopped
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
1½ teaspoons salt
1 bay leaf
1 green pepper, diced
¼ teaspoon whole cloves
1 teaspoon sugar
2 3¼ cans sardines

Cook rice in boiling salted water until tender; drain. Melt butter, add onion and cook until tender, but not brown. Add tomatoes, salt, bay leaf, green pepper, whole cloves and sugar. Simmer 30 minutes or until slightly thickened. Flake sardines, reserving 6 for garnish. Mix flaked sardines with rice and place in individual casseroles; top with whole sardine and pour sauce around edge or combine flaked sardines, rice and tomato sauce in casserole and garnish with whole sardine. Bake in moderate oven, 375 degrees, 30 minutes.

For Cream Sauce

Add grated Swiss cheese to a cream sauce for cabbage or cauliflower. The creamed vegetable may then be put in a casserole, topped with buttered bread or cracker crumbs and baked.

Cookbooklet on Potatoes Offers Many Serving Tricks

Just because you serve potatoes often is no reason to take them for granted and serve them in the same old ways over and over again.

The new cookbooklet, "250 Ways of Serving Potatoes," the latest release in The Constitution's series of 20 cookbooklets, presents so many novel ideas that you can give potatoes the place they deserve by varying their preparation daily. They may be served baked, fried, boiled, creamed, scalloped or whipped. They may be served in salads, soups, chowders, croquettes, dumplings, hash, omelets, pancakes, souffles and other casseroles. They may also be served in combination with other vegetables, meats, sauces, cheese, eggs, fish, fruit and nuts. The possibilities, therefore, are unlimited.

Long considered the ugly duckling of the vegetable family, the potato becomes a beautiful swan when served according to some of the recipes in the book. The sweet potato comes in for its share of the spotlight too, for there is a whole section devoted to this branch of the family which is so rich in Vitamin A.

Collected at random are some of the choice recipes from the book.

CREOLE POTATO SALAD

3 cups diced cooked potatoes (warm)
2 tablespoons grated onions
1 tablespoon minced green pepper
¾ cup finely diced celery
1 hard-cooked egg
1 tablespoon chow chow
5 tablespoons oil
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper, Lettuce

Combine ingredients in the order given. Chill and serve with a garnish of lettuce.

POTATO, CELERY AND NUT LOAF

¾ cup chopped nuts
3 cups mashed potatoes
3 tablespoons fat
1 egg, beaten
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
2 teaspoons grated onion

Cook celery until tender in small amount of boiling salted water. Drain off liquid. (This may be served for soup stock). Add remaining ingredients in order listed. Mix well, pack in greased loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven for 35 minutes. Serve with tomato sauce.

HUTSPOT

8 potatoes
½ cup righ milk
6 carrots
Salt and pepper
2 to 4 tablespoons butter

Dice onions and carrots, cover with boiling salted water and cook until tender. Drain. Pare potatoes, cut in pieces and cook in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and shake over heat to dry thoroughly. Add onions and carrots and mash well. Season with salt and pepper; add milk and butter. Heat thoroughly. Serves eight.

PICKANINNY CREOLE

Cut boiled sweet potatoes in halves lengthwise and arrange in a shallow pan. Cover with plenty of butter and brown sugar. Add a dash of mace, a sprinkle of salt and the grated rind of an orange. Bake in a moderate oven until the sugar and butter have formed a thick syrup, 35 to 40 minutes. Serve with ham, grilled bacon or game.

It's New For You

The makers of Bondex have introduced a new interior wall finish that colors and resurfaces in one coat. The new product, called Dramex, refinishes cracked plaster walls without replastering and makes wallboard walls look like plaster.

It is easy to use. Mix it with water, and apply with a paint brush. It dries in four hours and has no painty odor. The product is said to be so uniform you can stop applying and start again hours later without change in color. Many decorative surface finishes are possible with this new product.

It is available in eight colors and white, and is on sale at most paint stores.

Banana Rye Bread Makes Good Eating for Egg Allergics

Persons allergic to eggs, wheat and milk may enjoy this banana rye bread, and many who haven't any allergies at all will like it too. It makes good sandwiches and toast. Keep it in a well-aired covered container in a cool dry place.

BANANA RYE BREAD
(For wheat-egg-milk allergy diet; 2 loaves)

2 packages compressed or dry granular yeast
3 tablespoons lukewarm water
1 tablespoon salt
1½ tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons melted shortening (not butter)
2¼ cups mashed ripe bananas (about 5 or 6 bananas)
5¼ to 6 cups rye flour

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Mix salt, sugar, shortening, bananas. Add half the flour and beat until smooth. Beat in softened yeast. Add remaining flour gradually and mix well. Turn dough onto floured board and knead about 8 minutes, adding just enough extra rye flour to prevent sticking. Place dough in lightly greased bowl, cover and let rise until double in bulk, about 2 hours. Turn out again onto floured board and knead lightly for 2 minutes. Shape into 2 loaves, place in greased 8 by 4 by 3 inch bread pans and let rise again for an hour, or until double in bulk. Bake in hot oven, 425 degrees, 5 to 10 minutes, or until crust begins to brown. Reduce temperature to 350 degrees and bake 35 to 40 minutes longer, or until bread is done. Remove from pans. Brush top crusts with water.

Pink Lemonade Minus Lemons

Pink lemonade is popular with adults as well as children. This one is lemonade with no lemons. Grapefruit juice and orange juice provide the tart refreshment. Grenadine syrup tints the drink pink.

PINK "LEMONADE"
(Six Servings)

1 cup grapefruit juice
1 cup orange juice
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ cup grenadine syrup
1½ quarts ginger ale
2 egg whites

Mix fruit juices, sugar and grenadine. Just before serving, add well-beaten egg whites and beat vigorously. Pour into six tall glasses, with ice cubes; fill with ginger ale.

CHANNING COPE'S ALMANAC:

State Should Produce Fescue Seed---Scott

FRIDAY, JULY 29, 1949

Suggestion of the day: Tonight at the Fulton County Courthouse the Greater Atlanta Poultry Breeders' Association is sponsoring a motion picture show covering the subjects of all known poultry diseases. It is free to the public. No obligations of any kind. The time is 8 p. m. You are invited.

ALREADY ACCLIMATED

Our friend Thurmond Scott, of the River Creek Plantation near Thomasville, and a mighty man when it comes to making corn, oats, and pigs, writes us he is of the opinion Georgia now should supply its own fescue seed for planting purposes.

I agree with him thoroughly. We have been planting annuals from Oregon (even though they are good ones) for so long it is almost a fixed habit with many of us. As for Kentucky 31 fescue grass which came to Georgia from Kentucky, it now is time for us to get this seed from our own folks.

Scott goes beyond the usual reasons given for patronizing our home folks; the keeping of money at home and the consequent increase in income and prosperity. He says the seed will be better for us in that they are acclimated.

I think he's got something there. If the mother plant grew here and fought it out with our pests, climate, diseases and practices, it would seem the offspring would be able to meet the situation, too.

That's the test plants are put to as a rule. You hear of a new plant and you ask yourself, "How will it do in our locality?" You try it out and if it works, it is added to the list of suitable plants.

Bert Hendrickson, of the Experiment Station at Watkinsville, has been toughening up some blue lupine for a number of years. It is a cool weather plant, but not a freezing weather plant.

Bert started with the run-of-the-mine lupine. Some of the plants lived. He took these seed and replanted. More of these lived. Now he has a sizable amount of cold weather blue lupine. I should think the principle applies to fescue as Thurmond Scott suggests.

Georgia growers now have seed for sale. The Kentucky 31 Fescue Association at Cumming can supply the names of growers with seed for sale. The Georgia Crop Improvement Association of Athens can supply the names of growers of certified seed. This column also will be glad to print the names of Georgia farmers who have fescue seed for sale.

From this Fall onward the acreage of fescue in Georgia should multiply rapidly. We've got the seed and the know-how.

Join us at 6 a. m. and 12:45 p. m. over WCON, and 6:15 a. m. over WMAZ.

Until then,

Channing Cope

IN POOR HEALTH

Woolworth Heiress Keeps Son

DEDHAM, Mass.—(AP)—Perhaps the world's richest mother—Woolworth Heiress Barbara Hutton Troubetzkoi—can keep her only son with her for the Summer because she is poor in health.

Under a court agreement reached yesterday, she may have Lance, 13, whose custody she sares with his father, former Danish Count Curt Haugwitz Reventlow, with her in Europe until Sept. 7.

The agreement ended an across-the-world court squabble which broke because Babs went swimming at swank Lido Beach in Venice.

Tall, suntanned Haugwitz Reventlow, who had agreed that Lance could stay with his mother, did so because Probate Judge Arthur W. Davis was told the millionairess was in critical condition.

But the former nobleman changed his mind when reports reached here that Babs was swimming at the Venetian resort. He asked for a new hearing.

Yesterday, Babs' swimming was described as part of her cure.

Dr. Guiseppe Comirate, of Venice, asserted in an affidavit filed with the court that the Princess Barbara Troubetzkoi "is in a very fragile and delicate state of health. . . "

MARIETTA — Marietta got its first woman high school principal in 25 years with appointment this week of Mrs. Fred G. Swain, an English teacher here for the last five years.

She was elected by the Board of Education to succeed Roy Callison, who resigned last week to become principal of Gainesville High School at a reported salary gain of $1,100.

The only other woman principal on record here was Miss Georgia Hunt, who quit in 1924 to get married.

Marietta's 3,600 school children will start the 1949-50 year on Monday, Sept. 5, Supt. Shuler Antley has announced. He said students entering school for the first time will be registered during the week of Aug. 29.

3 Psychiatric Grants For Georgia Colleges

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

Two grants totaling $42,900 have been made to Emory University to assist in expanding its psychiatric program.

The funds will be used (1) to help develop a pediatric psychiatric clinic, and (2) to teach child psychiatry to both students and medical residents at Emory.

Dr. Hugh Wood, Dean of the School of Medicine at Emory, will administer the grants allocated for the development of undergraduate training in the Department of Psychiatry and the School of Medicine.

Both grants—one for $37,500 and the other for $5,400—were made by the Mental Hygiene Division of the National Institute of Mental Health in Washington. The larger grant will cover a three-year period. Both will become effective July 31.

The grants will pay for two additional staff members, who will assist in developing a pediatric psychiatric clinic already established and inaugurate a program of teaching child psychiatry.

Two other Georgia institutions also received grants from the National Institute of Mental Health for expanding faculty and teaching facilities. They are Atlanta University, which was awarded $5,000, and the University of Georgia School of Medicine, $5,000.

Dr. F. B. Washington, Director of the School of Social Work at Atlanta University, who will administer the grant to that institution, said the new grant would be added to a $25,000 grant received from the Rosenwald Foundation and used to employ an additional instructor in psychiatry and a person to travel and supervise students working at psychiatric clinics over the country.

He said there has been "an increasing demand" for Negro case workers with psychiatric training for service in veterans' hospitals and private clinics.

VICTIM OF CANCER

Betty's Birthday Plans Halted by Hand of Death

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

Betty Lorraine Woods would have been 17 years old Sunday.

"Bring my cake and presents up here," she had whispered to her mother from her bed at Grady Hospital.

Betty's parents, her brother and sisters had planned a quiet bedside birthday party. They already had carefully selected presents Betty would like.

But yesterday, Betty's mother, Mrs. Irvin J. Woods, 133 Currier St., N. E., forced a smile and said:

"My little girl will spend her birthday with Jesus."

The pretty, raven-haired girl died in her sleep Wednesday.

Betty Lorrane had cancer. The malignancy started in her stomach and spread throughout her body. She suffered for nearly a year and a half. She was aware a year ago, when she celebrated her sixteenth birthday, that she couldn't get well. But she smiled cheerfully when more than 100 relatives, neighbors and friends came to wish her "happy birthday."

"This is the happiest moment of my life!" she pluckily proclaimed.

"She suffered a great deal," said her mother. "She told me several times that she was 'ready to die.'"

Funeral services for Betty, former student at Fulton High School, will be held at 11 a. m. today at the J. Austin Dillon Chapel. The Rev. D. T. Tolar, of Thomaston, will officiate.

Besides her parents, Betty is survived by a brother, Harold Eugene Woods, of Atlanta, and two sisters, Mrs. Frances Burks and Mrs. Thelma Wilder, of Thomaston.

Train Hits Stalled Car

Mrs. Minnie E. Lane, 43, of 1902 Evans Dr., S. W., narrowly escaped injury yesterday when the automobile she was driving was struck by a Central of Georgia freight train at the Ft. McPherson railroad crossing.

Ptl. J. W. Belcher and D. C. Taylor said Mrs. Lane drove up behind another auto which was stalled on the tracks. She saw the north-bound freight bearing down in time to leap from the auto and run.

Devises Air Conditioner

Prisoners on the fourth floor of City Jail are relaxing under a cool breeze thanks to the ingenuity of a turnkey.

In an attempt to make quarters more liveable during hot days Turnkey J. J. Galvin hit upon the idea of placing a cake of ice directly in front of the fan assigned to the floor. The fan blowing over the ice carries cool air over the area occupied by prisoners arrested for drunkenness and the like.

Oil Preserves Motor During Undersea Stay

A motor submerged 14 days in sea water at Newport Beach, Cal., ran free and its shaft turned easily within a few minutes after it was taken up, with its inside uncorroded although the outside bored rust.

That was the test made of Wynn's Friction Proofing Oil by Wynn Oil Company.

To prove the qualities of its additive oil, the concern first friction-proofed the engine for 16 hours with its oil. Then it dropped the engine in the Pacific for the two-week period. With 100 newsmen, naval officers and marine engineers watching, it hauled up the engine, dried the motor with an air hose. After it coughed up sea water, it fired and ran perfectly.

Wynn claims its lubricant is the first which increases mechanical efficiency while giving protection against corrosion of vital moving parts. It pointed out that 80 to 90 percent of all wear in automobile motors is caused by the corrosion of bearing surfaces and cylinder walls by acids produced during combustion.

The California concern recently has started a campaign to spread its product eastward and has named Wilson Distributing Company, of 120 Alexander St., N. W., its agent in Atlanta.

Cheap Paving Proposed for Some Streets

City Council's Public Works Committee yesterday moved to expand paving operations and protect paving.

Construction Chief Clarke Donaldson was instructed to prepare specifications for a cheaper paving for secondary streets on which traffic is light to encourage property owners to pave stretches which are not heavily traveled.

Councilman James E. Jackson proposed the new type paving. He told members of the committee he and Donaldson have been working on the idea for weeks.

"If we lay high-cost paving on secondary streets, we will confiscate some properties," Jackson said. "The cost of the paving would not be justified by the value of the properties. If we can cut the costs one-half, which Mr. Donaldson and I believe can be done with lighter materials, we will get three times as many of those areas paved. Owners are willing to pay a reasonable cost, but they cannot jeopardize their savings by buying paving for which they cannot pay."

Donaldson will work on specifications and will determine whether a charter amendment will be necessary to implement the proposed new program.

At the present time, paving is done under what is known as the baby bond paving plan. Under it, property owners pay for paving in 10 installments and the paving is guaranteed for five years. Jackson proposes that the cheap paving be paid in five annual installments and that it be guaranteed for three years.

Committee members also instructed Donaldson to notify the MacDougald Construction Company, contractors on the first work being done on the North-South Expressway to limit their loads to 18,000 pounds. The action was taken after engineers said the huge Euclid trucks now in use carry loads ranging up to 60,000 pounds and that streets being traversed by trucks carrying excavated rock are being "literally shredded."

Donaldson also was instructed to notify contracting officials they will be held responsible for damage already done to the streets.

Councilman Archie Lindsey, of the Third Ward, insisted on action to bar use of the large equipment. He said hundreds of residents along the route have protested the broken pavement and the noises made by the truck engines.

DELIVER NEEDED APPARATUS

Georgia Fliers Receive Injured Vet's Thanks

A Florida World War II veteran with a broken neck last night sent Georgians a "thank you" from his Orlando hospital bed for his chances for recovery.

United action of the Air Forces, Army, Veterans' Administration and private individuals in the two neighboring States literally meant life to Linton S. Waterhouse, under treatment at Orange General Hospital in Orlando.

John M. Slaton, Jr., manager of the VA District Office here, yesterday disclosed the story of unique co-operation.

Waterhouse, who broke his neck while diving, urgently needed a "striker frame," a contraption to strap him to his hospital bed in such a manner that his neck could not be moved for a long period of hospitalization. No frame was available in Florida.

An Orlando Legionnaire, C. P. Walker, discovered that Oliver General Hospital, Army hospital at Augusta, had a frame, but no means of getting it to the injured veteran. He appealed to Slaton to help him find a mode of transporting the bulky apparatus, approximately the size of a hospital bed.

Slaton found members of the 115th Special Air Mission Squadron, based at the Marietta Air Force Base, willing to take a C-47, fly it to the Augusta hospital, and deliver the frame to Waterhouse.

A crew headed by Capt. William O. Ezell, pilot, and Capt. Walter A. Addis and T. Sgt. J. R. Rogerson reached Orlando on their errand of mercy at 8 p. m. yesterday and flew back to Atlanta with Waterhouse's words of gratitude last night.

Furthermore, like ROYAL Vanilla and ROYAL Butterscotch Puddings, both these smoother, creamier textured ROYAL Chocolate Puddings contain more food energy than the sweet fresh milk you make 'em with . . . so buy ROYAL Puddings today!

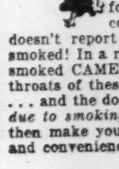

BIG SURPRISES come in little packages . . . just take the brand-new KIX, for example. Now in a more delicious form, the puffs are smaller, more tender and flavorful than ever . . . for they're brimming over with new golden goodness and that hearty corn flavor that everybody from junior to grandpa "goes for." And from a mother's point of view, you'll go for KIX in a big way, too . . . because each new crispy corn puff is "charged" with important health and energy giving values. So get new KIX today . . . surprise your family with this wonderful new treat in breakfast cereals that's "puffection itself"!

ATTENTION COFFEE LOVERS! If you want extra-delicious coffee made the extra-easy way, get BORDEN'S Instant Coffee! First because Borden's is 100% pure coffee, all coffee, and second, it's the only instant coffee made by the new "Flavor-Peak" process, a wonderful new process that extracts more rich flavor from freshly-roasted coffee than ever before! And last but not least, there's no pot to wash, no messy grounds! (BORDEN'S throws the used grounds away!) BORDEN'S Instant Coffee, made by the new "Flavor-Peak" process has everything!

ONE GOOD TURN deserves another . . . so when you're buying delicacies for your family's enjoyment or for a party, be sure to include the cigarette that will give as much enjoyment as any item on your tempting menu! To my way of thinking, that cigarette is CAMELS . . . for they're so full-flavored and so wonderfully mild! They "spell" all-'round smoking enjoyment for every occasion! To discover just how MILD a cigarette can be, test CAMELS in your "T-ZONE" . . . that's "T" for Taste and "T" for Throat! See how your Taste welcomes CAMEL'S rich, full flavor . . . See if your throat doesn't report that CAMELS are the mildest cigarette you ever smoked! In a recent coast-to-coast test, hundreds of men and women smoked CAMELS, and only CAMELS, for 30 days. Each week, the throats of these smokers were examined by noted throat specialists . . . and the doctors reported not one single case of throat irritation due to smoking CAMELS! So get a carton of CAMELS today . . . then make your own 30-Day Test of Camel Mildness! For economy and convenience, be sure to buy those CAMELS by the carton!

MOVIE REVIEWS

Fox Offering Tells Marilyn Miller Story

By PAUL JONES
Constitution Movie Editor

Warner Bros., the studio which produced one of the great all-time musicals, "Yankee Doodle Dandy," has delivered another smash tune-filled comedy, "Look for the Silver Lining," which opened yesterday at the Fox Theater.

Each of the major movie firms has its own pattern for making musical comedy click. MGM goes in heavily for acquacades with Esther Williams doing the splashing; 20th Century favors the fantasy and Universal tailors its tuneful comedies to fit the singing of Deanna Durbin. But Warner Bros. adapts its comedies to biographies of show business' great stars, surrounding them with the big tunes of yesteryear and the colorful nostalgia of the time when show business was an art instead of a business.

"Silver Lining" is the story of Marilyn Miller, a gorgeous Broadway hoofer and singer. The era in which Miss Miller was queen of the Main Stem was filled with color, comedy, romance and music, and so is this film story of her life. Warner Bros. has captured most of the gaiety of this period in its lavish Technicolor production which had everyone leaving the Fox with a smile on his face last night.

June Haver was borrowed from 20th Fox for the Miller role and she performs with her usual charm. Her work is made lighter by expert support from a battery of veterans, headed by Ray Bolger, Charles Ruggles and Rosemary De Camp. Singing Star Gordon MacRae appears briefly as Miss Miller's sweetheart and first mate.

Evelyn Keyes Returns

It has been a long time since Evelyn Keyes, lovely Atlanta cinema star, has appeared on a local screen. But the blonde actress makes up for lost time with a capably handled role as the heroine of Samuel Goldwyn's "Enchantment," which commenced at the Paramount Theater yesterday.

As one of the principals, Miss Keyes shares the spotlight with three other veterans, Teresa Wright, David Niven and Farley Granger in a dual romantic plot. The two love stories are developed within the same setting and are dramatized through very clever flashback technique which spans a period of more than 30 years. The two episodes are knitted together by Niven, who, as an old man, tries to prevent Miss Keyes and Granger from making the same mistake he made.

'Roughshod' Scores

Good casting and superb direction have combined to lift "Roughshod", RKO horseopera which now is playing at the Rialto, from the run-of-the-mill outdoor dramas.

The play follows the popular story theme with outlaws, sheriff's posse and gambling houses and the inevitable horseback chases. But the manner in which the play is handled makes for interest and excitement. Gloria Grahame and Robert Sterling are the principals, while Claude Jarman, Jr., lately of "The Yearling" handles an important juvenile assignment.

U. S. Having 2d Highest Polio Year

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Infantile paralysis cases are running far ahead of last year—the second worst polio year in U. S. history.

An Associated Press survey showed 6,935 cases over the Nation through July 27, with 337 polio deaths.

In 1948 the total for the first seven months—through July 31—was 5,498 cases. The total for last year finally reached 27,680, second only to the record of "about 30,000 cases" for 1916.

The U. S. Public Health Service reported in Washington that the 6,339 cases as of July 25 this year was 38.4 percent higher than the 4,580 reported through the same date last year.

Comparison with the record year, 1916, would be difficult because a change has been made in the reporting system since then.

Other high years in the U. S. were 1946 with 25,191 cases and 1944 with 19,029.

The polio appeared to be gaining strength with the hot weather. Government figures showed 1,444 new cases during the week ending July 23. This was an increase of 47.5 percent over the same week of 1948, which had 979. In 1944, there were 915 new cases for the week ending July 27.

For the most part the polio upsurge appeared to be fairly evenly distributed over the nation. Only scattered epidemic areas were reported.

WHAT TO EXPECT TODAY
Sun in Leo

General Tendencies — The moon goes into the sign Libra today, and I will bet that most people will welcome this change—apparent after noon. Things will be less tense, people will demand less and a more social spirit will be abroad. There is still need for ability to cope with emergencies, but these will become less and less important as the day goes on. In the evening there should be romantic attractions, new friends or opportunities for both. No one can say just when each and every person will decide to make use of general outside conditions.

If It's our Birthday—People born in the last week of August this year have a forecast of some financial stress for the coming few months. The actual strain may not be present but the point of view will be such that worry and concern will find easy access to the individual. This should be fairly well past the high-mark by the last of 1949 and certainly so by early 1950. There may be new interests which inspire the thought of financial adjustment—family affairs, most likely.

Charge Thomaston Man Was Swindler

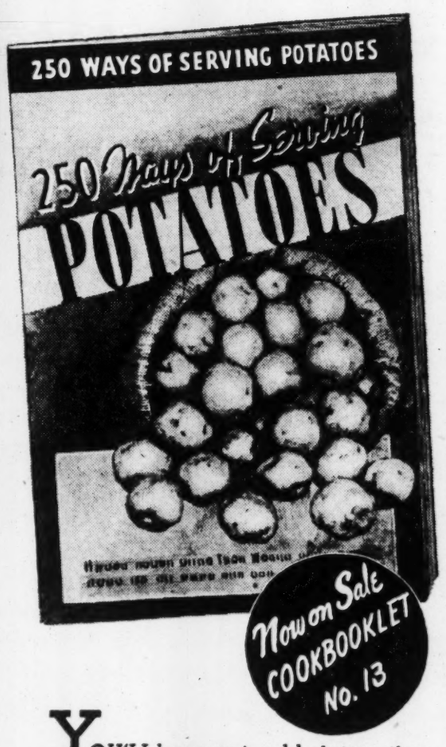

Atty. Garland Byrd, representing the Sims Garrett Motor Company, of Thomaston, yesterday obtained a warrant charging G. L. Cauley, of Thomaston, with cheating and swindling. Cauley was said to be under arrest in Thomaston, but will be returned here to face the charge.

Cauley is alleged to have bought a car here which the motor company had sent to be auctioned and to have paid for it with a worthless check for $1,700.

Byrd is assistant director of the State Veterans' Service.

Here's an old Favorite in many new ways

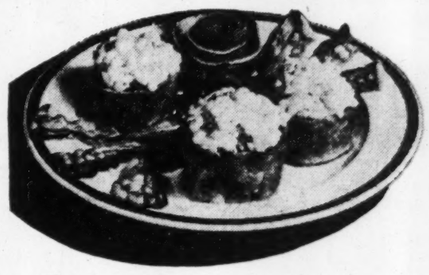

YOU'LL have no trouble interesting your family in potatoes when you serve them in these delectable new ways. Here are 250 fascinating recipes to help you vary your potato dishes. Of course you know how important this popular vegetable is in the daily diet for its abundant supply of vitamin C, but do you also know that potatoes are among the few heat-producing foods that help keep the body alkaline and that they provide a generous amount of minerals and enough protein to maintain adult health?

Try serving stuffed potatoes such as the one accompanying the fish and artichoke on this delightful luncheon plate.

It's a simple variation that takes only a few minutes longer than the usual method, but the reward is worth the extra effort. The baked potato section suggests many of these interesting dishes including au Gratin Stuffed Potatoes, Oyster Baked Potatoes, Pigs in 'Taters, Brabant Potatoes, Potato Charlotte, Potato and Bean Cutlets and many others.

Fried potatoes are a boon to the budgeteer who welcomes suggestions for the use of leftovers. When leftovers are served in potato twirls, they seem like a treat instead of an economy. These delicious little crisps are perfect for creamed vegetables, eggs, fish, or (as illustrated) scrambled eggs. Among the fried potato ideas are Lyonnaise Potatoes, Liver Sausage Cakes, Potato Nests, Toasted Potato Balls, Potato Croquettes, Salmon Cakes, Potato Pancakes, Potato Omelet, Potato Fritters, and the ever popular French Fried Potatoes in a number of new ways.

Don't forget sweet potatoes! The Potato Book covers this subject so thoroughly you'll be baking, creaming, frying and mashing these succulent yams more frequently than ever. For a really novel and luscious treatment, stuff glazed sweet potatoes with tangy cranberry sauce. They'll make everything else on the menu taste twice as good.

We could go on forever telling you about the wonderful potato salads, dumplings, soups, casseroles, and other dishes in this new Cookbooklet, but you'll want to try them all yourself! And you can right away—the Potato Book is waiting for you now!

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

City Hall News

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Richmond Studies System

Richmond Civil Service executives are giving the Atlanta Personnel office the once over. John Mapp, Director, and Melvin Lubman, of the Richmond office, are in Atlanta studying the system here with the idea of adopting many of the policies and procedures used in Atlanta. Mapp said civil service is in its infancy in Richmond.

Health Dept. Birth

Dr. James F. Hackney, Director of the City Health Department, was smiling broadly yesterday. He is something of a "god-grandfather." Mr. and Mrs. Elco Morris, both of whom are employed in the Health Department, are the proud parents of their first-born, Hoyt DuBose Morris, who has arrived at Crawford Long Hospital. Morris is an engineer in the Milk Division, while Mrs. Morris, the former Miss Edith Tanner, is a laboratory technician.

New Plumbing Code

A five-man subcommittee today will attempt to redraft and perfect a proposed new plumbing code for Atlanta. City Construction Chief Clarke Donaldson has called the session for 2 p. m. today at the City Hall. The group is acting for Council's Public Works Committee, to which the original ordinance was referred.

Reading Demonstrations

Techniques of fast reading will be demonstrated to members of the Atlanta Board of Education and representatives of Parent-Teacher Associations at noon today at Hoke Smith High School. Dr. Murray L. Miller, of the training division of the Air University of the U. S. Air Forces at Montgomery, will lead the exhibition. Miss Ira Jarrell, City School Superintendent, says the program will be introduced into city schools to improve reading ability of Atlanta students. Included among guests will be C. L. Harper, Jr., Assistant Superintendent of Duval County, Jacksonville, who is studying Atlanta's curricula.

City Accounts Transferred

Mayor Hartsfield yesterday signed his name 44 times to transfer 22 various City accounts from Compt. B. Graham West, who is retiring, to newly elected Compt. Lawrence A. James. The signatures were in duplicate. The funds include the general City accounts, pension funds, bond funds and special accounts in which other governments participate. James will be sworn in for a four-year term tomorrow by the Mayor.

Study Boulevard Poser

Sept. 15 was set yesterday by the Public Works Committee as the date for a public hearing on a proposal to utilize sidewalk areas on the west side of Boulevard, south of the new underpass, as a parking area. The proposal was advanced several weeks ago, but some residents in the area have protested it would restrict pedestrian travel.

Hartsfield at Work

Mayor Hartsfield yesterday talked finances with Lawrence James, Comptroller-elect, airport problems with Jack Gray, Airport Manager, inspected the new plaza, attended routine office business and had dinner last night with a group of friends.

Fourth Ward Race

A four-cornered race for the Fourth Ward Councilman post now held by John Marler was assured yesterday when E. E. (Buster) Cooper, engraver, of 1446 South Gordon St., S. W., paid his entrance fee to run in the Sept. 7 primary. Marler, Neal Ponder and Joe Wallace previously had entered the lists for the position. Cooper's entry was the sixtieth in City races, 59 having qualifed before him. Lists close at noon tomorrow after which the City Democratic Executive Committee will meet to officially declare the qualifed entrants.

Mrs. Durant On Parole

Former WAC Capt. Kathleen Nash Durant, who was convicted with her husband in the $1,500,000 Hesse crown jewel theft, has been granted a parole and released from the Women's Federal Reformatory at Alderson, W. Va.

Mrs. Durant was in Atlanta in April last year, when she was out of prison several weeks on a writ of habeas corpus and came to visit her husband, former Col. J. W. Durant, who is serving a 14 year sentence in the Federal Penitentiary here.

Mrs. Durant was ordered back to Federal prison May 4, 1948, after the United States Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals reversed a decision of a district judge who first released her. Informed here that she would have to go back to prison, the ex-WAC said then she was "surprised and shocked."

Although word of her parole was disclosed only yesterday in Washington, D. C., Mrs. Durant was released July 15 after she had served one-third of her five-year sentence.

The Durants smuggled the crown jewels from an ancient German castle into the United States. Part of the loot was discovered in a railroad station cache in Chicago, Ill.
